U. S. SETS UP $185,900 FOR CITY AIRPORT

Mansfield Included In Ohio Fund of $15,000,000 For Port Improvements.

PROGRAM EXTENSIVE

Calls For Facilities For Night Flying and Landing of Transport Planes.

Extensive improvements at Mansfield's municipal airport that would provide facilities for night flying and the landing of transport planes were included today in the federal government's plan to develop Ohio air fields.

Total cost of the Mansfield project, dispatches from Washington said, amounts to $185,900

The project is part of the Civil Aeronautics bureau's long-range national program estimated to cost more than $500,000,000, of which $15,780,000 would be spent in Ohio.

Preliminary appropriations have been approved by the house the dispatches said, and are pending in the senate. Once the money is available the bureau, army and navy must agree on a plan and select the jobs which seem most necessary

The program in Ohio calls for construction of three "super-airports" at Cleveland, Columbus and Cincinnati; the development of new ports in 28 cities, and improvements at 61 existing fields.

The expenditures in Mansfield would include the levelling of the field and construction of additional drainage tile at a cost of $30,000.

A total of $132,600 would be spent for putting down hard surfaced runways that would permit landing of heavy aircraft, now unable to use the field.

Night lighting facilities would also be provided at the cost of $19,600 while $3,700 would be spent for miscellaneous work.

Although dispatches said the Mansfield port would remain a class one field, State Director of Aeronautics Earl A. Johnson told The News-Journal today that it was likely that when the improvements are completed

HITS NEW LOW

Mercury Drops to 29 During Night; It's Due to Climb.

"Fair and warmer" isn't only the name of a play—it's what's in store for Mansfield for tonight, Saturday and Sunday, according to predictions of the weather man.

Mansfield's official temperature of 29 last night was the lowest recorded anywhere in the country, according to Associated Press weather charts. Springfield, Ill., was next, with a 31 temperature.

Last night was the second consecutive night that the mercury dropped below the freezing point. A high yesterday of 57 made an average of 43 for the 24-hour period, which is 20 degrees lower than the 15-year average. There was a heavy frost for the second morning.

Hundreds Throng Stores as Dollar Day Event Opens

A combination of fair weather and real bargains brought hundreds of Mansfielders and shoppers from surrounding towns to the down town district today to take advantage of the opening of annual Dollar Days.

Dollar Days are special events in Fall Value Week which opened Monday. Fall and winter merchandise has been on display this week in 50 retail stores taking part in the merchandising event, but today and tomorrow are devoted to special dollar bargains.

Participating stores are marked with yellow pennants. While a sample of attractive merchandise in all lines may be seen in store windows, it takes a visit to the inside of the store to find the special bargains that are being offered.

4 From City Injured In 3 Accidents

Mansfielders Hurt In Car Crashes; W. E. Jones In Kentucky Mishap.

Three Mansfield persons were injured, none seriously, in the Richland county area and one other Mansfield motorist was slightly injured near London, Ky., in traffic accidents yesterday.

While en route to Asheville, N. C., on a business trip, W. E. Jones of the Jones Furniture company here was forced over an embankment by a truck near London, Ky., last night word received here said Jones suffered only minor cuts and bruises

A message to business associates stated that Jones was resting in a London hotel and that he expected to continue his journey when his automobile has been repaired. It was badly damaged

Also injured yesterday were Eva Oberdier, 34, of 283 Park avenue west, and Mrs. Jack Berger, 35, of 15 Dale avenue, who were treated in General hospital yesterday afternoon and released.

Miss Oberdier sustained face lacerations and cuts about the left knee, while Mrs. Berger was treated for a sprained ankle and shoulder and lacerations.

Highway patrolmen said the accident occurred on Route 13, three miles south of Mansfield, when Gordon C. Heath, 45, of Ashland, attempted to pass a truck on a curve. Both automobiles went off the berm in attempting to avoid the collision, patrolmen said, but the two vehicles crashed head-on.

GENERAL STRIKE TIES SHANGHAI

U. S. Marines Stand By For Emergency Duty While Police Take Hand.

(By International News Service)

SHANGHAI — While United States marines stood by for emergency duty, police today sought to quell an allegedly Japanese-inspired general strike which is rapidly spreading through Shanghai public work facilities.

The strike was reportedly designed to discredit American, French, and other foreign officials in the French international settlements of Shanghai.

The strike, presently confined to the sewage, garbage, and public works departments, took a violent turn last night when strikers bombed a street car in the French concession, injuring 10 passengers. One striker was arrested.

It was reported that Rear Admiral Thomas C. Hart, commander of the U. S. Asiatic fleet, issued orders delaying the departure of five American destroyers and the cruiser Augusta for Manila until the situation quiets down.

Further tension was caused in the city today when two red-nosed Japanese prusuit planes roared over the business district barely clearing the roof tops.

DOCKS BURNING

Liverpool Warehouses Also Hit By German Bombs.

LIVERPOOL, England—(AP)—Some docks and warehouses are burning in Liverpool today after heavy bombing by German planes last night.

A famous theater, among the oldest in England, was destroyed by fire after an incendiary bomb had fallen on it.

FALSE ALARM

Woman Faints at Sight of Fire Truck Before House.

KANSAS CITY —(AP)— Mrs. Dorothy Gross, 27, fainted when she looked out a window and saw fire trucks stopping before her home. A city ambulance physician revived her and informed her it was the house next door that was on fire.

RAF Strikes Severest Blow Against Germany and Invasion Ports.

BULLETIN

LONDON — (AP) — German warplanes attacked all England by the howling hundreds today in one of the mightiest aerial offensives yet launched in the long battle for Britain, and late in the afternoon at least 98 of the raiders had been officially declared shot down.

(By Associated Press)

LONDON—A great air battle was fought within the sight of observers in a southwest London suburb this afternoon with at least 100 British and German planes filling the skies after three grand-scale attacks had been made by the Nazis in a renewal of their mass assaults on this capital.

British and German long-range artillery also fought a duel across the 22-mile Dover strait, the German shells rocking the Dover area with two shells every two minutes, and the British fire increasing in intensity after half an hour.

One formation of nine German planes streaked across central London during the progress of the big battle. They were flying so high they could be seen only by the aid of powerful glasses.

Shells burst all around them, and one section of five turned back. The other four disappeared in a cloud as British fighters closed in

At least 120 German planes took part in the first of three waves this morning, after Britain's own mass formations had delivered the severest attacks

TRAIN DERAILED

Locomotive and Four Cars of Express Leap Tracks.

PITTSBURGH—(AP)— The locomotive and four cars of a 16-car Pennsylvania railroad express train bound from New York to Pittsburgh leaped the tracks and overturned at a switch near Trafford today, killing the locomotive engineer and fireman.

The railroad identified the dead as F. F. Smith of South Greensburg, Pa., the engineer, and William S. McConnell of Pittsburgh, the fireman.

Four other cars were derailed but remained upright. Traffic on west-bound tracks was blocked by the wreckage and seven trains were delayed at the scene. 17 miles east of Pittsburgh. The train carried no passengers.

Von Ribbentrop, Ciano confer

F. D. R. stops scrap iron flow

Ambassador Grew may be recalled

The United States had been given a blunt warning to stay out of the war or face a common front of Germany, Italy and Japan, as those powers signed a pact in Berlin today pledging mutual assistance. It came a day after President Roosevelt declared an embargo on the sale of scrap iron to all but American nations and Great Britain, which would make Japan the chief sufferer. It was also viewed as a threat against United States seeking naval base rights at Singapore, a British base, in the Far East. United States had protested Japanese military entry into Indo-China (No. 1 on map). Japan is also expected to make moves against the Dutch East Indies, (No. 2). Signing the three-power pact in Berlin were Nazi Foreign Minister Joachim Von Ribbentrop, Italian Foreign Minister Ciano and Japanese Ambassador to Germany Saburu Kurusu. There were reports also that U. S. might recall Ambassador Joseph Grew from Tokio.

Anti-American Move Planned Through Spain

Axis Prepares to Deal With 'Mother Country' of Latin-America as Further Blow at United States Influence.

BULLETIN

LONDON — (AP) — Informed Russian sources declared tonight that the Soviet Union's position in the light of the new German-Italian-Japanese military pact is "dangerous and very grave."

By PIERRE J. HUSS
(INS Staff Correspondent)

BERLIN — In answer to President Roosevelt's alleged "silent alliance" with Great Britain, Nazi Germany today announced conclusion of a tri-partite military alliance embracing Germany, Italy and Japan.

With the warning that any American intervention in Europe or the Far East will be confronted by the "concentrated power of 250,000,000 people," the pact as expounded by Foreign Minister Joachim von Ribbentrop is intended basically to inform the United States she is now faced with a choice between open participation in the war and non-belligerency.

Soon, it was said, Germany and Italy will begin to deal with Spain as the "mother country" of Latin-America as another step in the Axis' "anti-American front."

Informed German quarters characterized the agreement, signed under the eyes of Reichsfuehrer Adolf Hitler, as the first tom-tom beat heralding approach of the war to the doorstep of the United States "unless America abandons her undeclared warfare."

The American embargo on export of scrap iron to Japan and rumors of a forthcoming Anglo-American agreement giving the United States a naval base at Singapore undoubtedly played a part in the agreement

Germany, Italy and Japan now take the attitude, it was said, that the next move and decision lie with America. It is a case of "take it or leave it," but in the meantime, German officials said, the agreement means that Britain is doomed regardless of what Washington does.

Announcement of the pact was described as another characteristic Hitler "blitz" move to forestall "footloose American intervention in the Far East on behalf of England" by allying himself with Japan.

In the immediate future, informed quarters said, Germany and Italy will begin to deal with Spain as the "mother country" of Latin-American nations, and although plans in

WESTINGHOUSE SET FOR DRAFT

Says Mansfield Employes To Be Called Will Get Leave of Absence, Month's Pay.

Employes of the Mansfield Westinghouse plant who are drafted for army service or for special national defense work will be granted a one-year leave of absence to cover their period of service, the company's industrial relations department announced today.

An additional leave up to 40 days will be granted in cases where employes need more time to get their personal matters in order before or after their period of defense service.

Drafted employes with at least a year of continuous service with the firm will be given a month's pay whether they are salary or hourly workers.

While the leave of absence does not apply to workers who enlist voluntarily, they will receive a month's pay under the same provisions which govern the pay grant to drafted employes, company officials said.

In accordance with provisions of the selective service and train-

DON'T U WORRY

Motorist Can Make That U-Turn Safely, He Tells Cop.

PEORIA — (AP) — A policeman hailed a motorist who had snarled traffic by trying to make a "U" turn on a busy street.

"Say, you can't do that," he barked, walking over to the car.

The motorist glanced left, right, and then at the policeman.

"Oh, I believe I can make it," he reassured the officer.

BOY, 6, DIES

Millersburg Youth, Paralysis Victim, Was in Iron Lung.

MILLERSBURG — Complications following an attack of infantile paralysis caused the death in Cleveland City hospital early this morning of Larry Sanders, six-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Earl O. Sanders.

The child suffered an attack of infantile paralysis last spring and early in May was taken to the Cleveland hospital and placed in an iron lung. Immediate cause of his death was a collapsed lung, according to physicians.

The body was brought to the Sanders home where it will remain until funeral services are held at 1 p. m. Monday at the Elliott funeral home. Rev. Robert Dietrich, pastor of the Methodist church, assisted by Rev. Darwin Haynes of First Presbyterian church, will conduct the services, and burial will be made at Bellevue, O.

Surviving are his parents and grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. T. O. Sanders of Chagrin Falls.

EMPLOYMENT UP

Three Per Cent Increase in Jobs Reported For Ohio.

COLUMBUS —(AP)— The Ohio State university bureau of business research today reported Ohio employment in August three per cent higher than July and 10 per cent greater than August, 1939.

General employment in Akron rose three per cent over July. Canton six per cent. Cincinnati one. Cleveland two. Columbus two. Dayton three. Toledo and Youngstown four each.

WIRE WALKER THRILLS CROWD

4,000 at Street Festival Watch Performer Stunt High In Air.

Approximately 4,000, crowded into three blocks of Fourth street last night got a real thrill when Prince Nelson, high wire performer walked across a wet, slippery wire, stretched across the street from the tops of two buildings.

The crowd milled through the street at the second night of the Fourth street festival, giving the rides, shows and concessions a whirl of business.

Prince Nelson, one of the free acts at the festival, puts on an act in which one slip would mean death on the pavement below. He works without a net or safety precaution of any kind. The wire is stretched from the top of the Mansfield Savings Trust National bank building across the street to the Bowers building.

Nelson works with a chair above the street on the slender wire and one of his stunts is walking blindfolded across the wire. During his second performance last night he started across blindfolded, but in the middle of the wire stopped and took it off. Fog had made the wire wet and slippery and the footing was precarious even for a wire walker. But he finished his act on the wet wire.

There will be seven free acts on the festival midway tonight.

Prince Nelson will perform on the high wire at 8 and 11 p. m., Yoki the juggler; Prince Karl, the human volcano, and other acts will give performances at 7:30, 9, and 10 p. m. on the platform between Main and Diamond streets, while the Whitesides, trapeze and tight wire performers, will show at 7:30 and 9:30 p. m. on the platform between Walnut and Mulberry streets.

The American Legion drum corps will begin a performance at 7 p. m.

HOME FOR HEALTH

INDIAN LAKE —(AP)— U. S. Sen. Vic Donahey, home from Washington "on doctors orders," said last night he intended to return to the capital "as soon as my health permits."

EXPECTED: Washington Shows Little Surprise at Alliance

BULLETIN

WASHINGTON—(UP)—Secretary of State Cordell Hull today indicated that he considers the alliance signed by Japan, Germany and Italy as a menace to the United States.

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON—Japan's new alignment with the European Axis powers drew only mild expressions of surprise today from Washington officials, familiar with what they described as an intense German campaign to enlist Tokyo's support against growing Anglo-American cooperation.

State department officials withheld formal comment pending a close study of the details and implications of the new three-power military and economic pact of Germany, Italy and Japan.

Informally, however, officials made it clear that such a development had been anticipated here. They noted that the Japanese press, commenting on the action of President Roosevelt in prohibiting scrap iron exports yesterday, said that the embargo placed the United States definitely on Britain's side.

It was known here, officials said, that Japan had been drawn steadily into closer relationship with Germany since the Konoye government came into power recently in Tokyo and set out with

THREAT: Japanese Thrust In Netherlands East Indies Seen

SHANGHAI—(UP)—Authoritative sources tonight believed that an immediate Japanese drive to obtain vital war materials in The Netherlands East Indies can be expected as a result of the new Berlin-Rome-Tokyo alliance and American embargoes directed at Japan.

If Japan can obtain supplies of tin, rubber and oil in the East Indies, it was pointed out, these materials could be shipped west to the Axis powers via the Trans-Siberian railroad and Russia.

Authoritative sources here regarded the alliance as a German political victory in the sense that Japan's fleet can now be employed to immobilize the United States navy in the Pacific and possibly even to involve the United States in a Pacific war, thus impeding American efforts to aid Britain's fight against the Axis.

Signs have been posted in English in the vicinity of the American embassy in Tokyo reading:

"Japan will not permit American interference in Asia."

An increasingly dangerous situation in the international area here was regarded as intimately connected with the larger political situation. Strikes, which it is charged are being fomented by Japanese operatives, are spreading and violence has broken out.

4,000 Mansfielders of Voting Age Have 8 Days to Register

Although there are only eight days left in which to register or transfer for the Nov. 5 election, Richland county election board officials estimated today that more than 4,000 Mansfielders of voting age have not registered.

Election board figures showed that about 18,200 residents of the city are qualified to vote, including more than 1,000 who have registered or transferred in recent weeks

While election officials hold no hope of getting all of the remaining 4,000 registered, they believe the total registration this year will approach 20,000 to set a new record in the city. The present total is close to the former high mark.

Registration deadline is Oct. 7 and both major political parties are busy in the city getting as many persons registered as possible before that time to boost their total vote in November

New residents of the city, those who have failed to vote at the last two general elections, and new citizens must register. Former voters who have moved since the last election and women who have changed their names through marriage must transfer

Absent voters' ballots are expected to be available by Oct. 6. They may be voted and returned until Oct. 31. College students will be able to get their absent ballots after Oct. 16 and disabled voters after Oct. 25. All of them must

CHAPTER XXIX.

They made their train with only a minute to spare and there was little time for goodbyes. . . .

"Wear a lei for me," Dick shouted through the window.

Edwina threw them a kiss and watched them, standing very close together and looking so "right" together, as the train slowly moved away, leaving only steel and dampness and silence.

Dick said soberly, "It makes you rather speechless, doesn't it, seeing something like that? It makes me sad—because you feel left out in the cold, I suppose. I don't wonder he went off the deep end over her. She's gorgeous. And that isn't the end of their love story. The next chapters will be better."

"You can see them living in some lovely country place with a couple of lovely children. And you can see a lot of sunshine and love and happiness and peace."

Edwina nodded. "Yes. And it all came true . . . Shall we go, Dick?"

"Where are' you going now Dick Fenton said to Edwina as the train bore Carol and Norman away on the first stage of their honeymoon trip.

She wished he hadn't asked her that because she had no place to go except to her tiny apartment.

"Home." She tried to smile. "But you go on. I share a certain melancholy Swede's celebrated passion for walking in the rain."

On the street, glistening with rain, he turned to her again.

"I haven't asked you how you like your job. Edwina, or how you're making out in the new set-up. Have you settled everything in Newton? Aren't you going back?"

"Everything is settled there: I don't owe a penny and I'm not going back—not for a long time anyway. And I like the job very much. Norman has been marvelous to me. Wouldn't let me be lonely."

"You're the bravest girl I've ever known."

"Because I've come down in the world and kept my chin up? I haven't come down, Dick. I've gone up. I've paid my debts and I'm straight with the world and I've something left over that I'm going to be very stingy about."

"When Cornelia comes back to town and Carol and Norman come back from their honeymoon, we'll have a party . . . ."

"Thanks. That's sweet of you. But I won't be a third wheel for either of you and I can't afford your parties. I can't belong to the working-girl group in the daytime and go to your parties at night. And I won't let Norman and Carol feel responsible for me." Or sorry for me, she thought. . . .

He smiled. ""You're still the bravest girl I've ever known. If it hadn't been for you, the world would be minus two happy people tonight on their way to Hawaii, and a boy who made one mistake in his life would be on trial rather than free and honest, his debts paid, too.

"You think Carol is the heroine. Carol who is beautiful and who has just married the man she loves? No, you are, Edwina. And we'll never forget it. I thought I was a pretty hard-boiled attorney until the night I saw you come up those steep dark steps to Mr. Hartley's rooms. Alan came first and you followed him. There was significance in that. You made him come . . . and you set him free and you gave Carol her great happiness. . . ."

She looked up at his hat from which the rain was dripping.

"Stop it, or you'll have me either conceited or in tears, and I've had so much fun today, ordering flowers for the wedding and buying that jacket for Carol, the first really luxurious, expensive thing she's ever had. You're getting soaked, Dick. Good-bye . . ."

She heard his thoughtful goodbye as she turned and walked away, a slim, graceful figure who hoped that when she reached the apartment hotel where she had taken a one-room, kitchenette and bath apartment no one would see her, and if by chance some one did, he or she would not be able to distinguish rain from tears.

Edwina was working full-time now at her typing job with Norman's firm though later, when the schools opened, she would work only half-time so that she could take up several studies. Now each day was the same—the alarm clock calling her from sleep, the hastily prepared breakfast in the kitchen so tiny she could scarcely turn around, then hurrying into her clothes and meeting on the street other girls whose lives were the same as hers. The huge office building semed to swallow her and then expel her, once for luncheon at some crowded, inexpensive, noisy place, and once again at 5 o'clock to walk back to the tiny apartment, to cook again and to spend an evening alone.

Despiring self-pity, she told herself that she had brought this dull, unchanging life upon herself by her extravagance and recklessness, and yet each evening when she stepped from the office building and paused a moment to buy a newspaper and then began the long walk home, she was sick with loneliness. Not that it was her former life she wanted, a life of parties and clothes and demanding men and women and late hours and liquor and emotional conflicts. It was that she had found herself a misfit among the girls at the office and the girls at the apartment hotel, who had read about her for the last five years and who regarded her, some with awe, some with jealousy, some with open animosity and ridicule. And she was determined not to be either a responsibility or an object of pity to Carol and Norman or Dick.

She was walking home, the newspaper tucked under her arm, her small feet moving quickly, then stopping to wait for a traffic light to change, then moving again. . . . But why was she hurrying, she asked herself. She had nothing to go back to and as she looked into other faces, she saw courage and drabness and weariness in most of the passing parade.

Gallantly she was fighting what had always frightened her more than anything else— loneliness. For these three weeks since Carol and Norman had been married had taught her that she could not bear loneliness. When you were rich, you could bribe loneliness with pleasure and people, even though the pleasure as well as the people were fake. But you were never completely alone.

Now loneliness was a drifting and an aching void; minutes dragged and each day was the same as the day before. Her life, which she had wanted so much to make purposeful and full, had become purposeless and empty, and her strength and her new ambition were utilized only in eight hours at a desk before a typewriter.

Pausing in a knot of people, she thought: It isn't that I'm ungrateful to Norman. I'm terribly grateful. It was he who taught me how to be generous and unselfish, and I'd like to go on being like that. I don't mind being poor and unknown. But I can't bear to be so alone after Norman's friendship. . . .

INTERNATIONAL CLOUDS CAUSE DROP IN MARKET

Leading Issues Dip More Than a Point Today; Bonds Are Shaky.

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK — International clouds cast further shadows over the stock market today and leading issues dipped fractions to more than a point.

On the losing end were U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, Chrysler, General Motors, N. Y. Central, Standard Oil of N. J., American Telephone, United Aircraft, Glenn Martin, Douglas aircraft, Consolidated Edison and Du Pont.

Japanese dollar loans weakened in a shaky bond department. Commodities were mixed. Securities at London maintained a steady tone.

Financial observers scanned the survey of Dun & Bradstreet which disclosed a slackening in the rate of retail spending throughout the country this week.

Flattening out of the upward curve, the review explained, was due to abnormal weather conditions in some regions. At the same time, it was stressed that sales still held to better than usual seasonal levels and wholesalers' order backlogs continued to expand.

Hollywood Speaks---

—By ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD—There's a big job here for some enterprising, gifted guy. All he'd have to do would be to hear a few songs and pick out the winners—before they got into a picture.

Hollywood is full of songs. They come fresh out of the pianos and heads of the amateur as well as the pro song writers. We'll skip the amateurs (as the studios mostly do) and just bother with the pros.

Pros, you'd think, would know their business and turn out nothing but hits. Well, that's all they do turn out, but the public doesn't always agree with them. The public has the tabs this one a hit, this one a pretty good piece, that one a dud. But the public lends an ear too late, after the picture's finished. And if they try out the tunes on the air, they've got no surprise left. Sometimes the public hears the tune so much it doesn't want to hear it any more. Sometimes the public thinks the picture copped the hit tune off the air. It doesn't work.

Mark Sandrich was in a quandary the other day over this musical puzzle. Mark's picture, "Love Thy Neighbor," has spots for four tunes. Johnny Burke and Jimmy Van Heusen, his musical servieners, have written six. Mark and the rest had decided definitely on only one of the four. Mary Martin will sing it in the picture. There's no guesswork about that one. Mary Martin sang it before, the public liked her and the song both. It's "My Heart Belongs to Daddy."

Mark held forth on his perplexity, which he shared with the song writers and all the other guessers. Said good song writers don't write bad tunes, but they're no better guessers than anybody else. Said "Look at that Bei Mir Bist du Schoen thing—kicked around and sold for a song and then it's a wow." Said, "Remember Over the Rainbow—how they almost left it out of 'Wizard of Oz?'"

Mark and the boys listened some more. All six were good tunes.

"But who can guess what the public will like?" Mark wanted to know.

I couldn't. I told him. My own record for picking hit tunes is about zero-zero-zero. I do better on horses.

"I guess," said Mark, "that the job is still open."

My guess, if anybody cares, is that the job always will be open. But think what a guy like that could mean to Hollywood. Not only to Mark Sandrich, but to Universal. The "U" is still at it, making movies out of hit song titles. They must make money, odd as it may seem to most of us, out of things like "Oh, Johnny, How You Can Love" and "I Can't Give You Anything But Love, Baby." They've just bought that new one, about Madame La Zonga, to make into a movie.

Think what a break it would be for the "U" if they could make the movies with the songs before the songs made the movies! As that, the "U" must have a good formula. Columbia tried it once with one of the biggest hits, and got nowhere. It was "The Music Goes 'Round and 'Round." But it didn't come out at the box-office.

'BURIAL FUND'

SAN FRANCISCO —(U P)— Mrs. Agnes Miller, 70, preferred to stand trial on a charge of theft rather than take a chance of missing out on a "decent Christian burial." After having received $1,381 in relief, she applied for an old age pension. It then developed that she had a $300 bank account.

WAR RESTRAINS NARCOTIC FLOW TO DRUG RINGS

Restricted Shipping to U. S. Cuts Down Avenues of Dope Smuggling.

ALBANY, N. Y. — (UP) — The wars in Europe and Asia have offered an appreciated ally to the nation's narcotic squads according to Frank Smith, New York state narcotic bureau director

Supplies of narcotics that must be imported are becoming scarcer, Smith explained, because of restricted commerce and shipping to the United States.

The additional crimp in the drug smugglers' and sellers activities—increasingly strict law enforcement—has caused an increase in thievery prescription forging and other desperate attempts by addicts to obtain drugs

For instance, the retail price of smoking opium has risen from its standard of $100 per pound to between $350 and $400, it is said

Opium is difficult to obtain because it is imported chiefly from China. Comparatively little is smoked now Smith said

Heroin and morphine prices have risen accordingly The former is sold by bootleggers diluted to contain as little as two or three per cent of the pure drug

Morphine however, can be stolen or obtained through forged prescriptions from medical channels

"Sometimes prescription pads are stolen from a doctor's office and the telephone number printed on the pad is changed to that of an accomplice" Smith said "When a wary pharmacist telephones to check with the doctor, the accomplice assures him the prescription is all right.

"They have various angles they work and they are desperate"

Smith said narcotics squads continue making arrests "every day," but he couldn't estimate whether addiction is increasing or is on the wane

"We make arrests but possibly that is because of stricter enforcement, not increased use

"We don't arrest the addicts—just try to get the dealers That is difficult. The stuff has no bulk and they move it fast"

Smokers of marijuana cigarettes, "reefers," are of secondary concern to narcotics agents although they are continually looking for and destroying patches of the weed Harlem has most "reefer men," Smith said

Y. M. C. A. Airplane Club To Conduct 'School' For Boys

Classes to instruct boys how to build model airplanes will be sponsored by the Frank Lahm Cadet Model Airplane club, it was announced today

The classes are open to boys in the sixth grade or higher and will met once a week at the Y. M C A throughout the winter, officials of the club said

Five progressive models, featured and licensed by "Air Youth of America," a model airplane organization, will be built by enrollees in the classes during the winter They range from the simple glider to a contest commercial model.

Group contests among the members for the best models will be held as the various projects are completed When the models meet the satisfaction of the instructor builders will be nominated for membership in the Frank Lahm Cadets

Information concerning application for membership may be obtained at the Y M C A

DIVISION VETS INSTALL SCHAD

Ralph A. Schad Heads 37th Association for Coming Year's Activities.

Ralph A. Schad, 396 Davis road, was installed as president of the Albert C. Gerke, chapter of the 37th division A. E. F. veterans association last night at the Memorial building.

Schad succeeds A. L. (Capt.) Allen who has held the office the past year.

Elected a month ago, the new officers were installed by Harold Roth of Cincinnati who was recently named state president at a convention here early this month.

Clyde L. Myers, was named vice president, and J. M. Crawford of Shelby was elected secretary-treasurer.

New officers of the women's auxiliary were installed by the state president, Mrs. R. D. Blackburn of Columbus.

They included Mrs. Donald Lightner who succeeded Mrs. D. C. Hagerman as president; Mrs. Guy North, vice president; Mrs. J. M. Crawford, secretary and Mrs. H. B. Emmers, treasurer.

ERASE VILLAGE

Historic Town to Be Lost Under 30 Feet of Water.

SOMERFIELD, Pa. —(U.P.)— This historic village—originally named "Great Crossings" by George Washington—will become a "ghost town," inundated by almost 30 feet of water.

Within two years, the new Youghiogheny Lake will back up behind the flood-contro' dam now under construction as part of the huge Western Pennsylvania-West Virginia project to check future flood waters. It will leave Somerfield, famous as the spot where Washington forded the Youghiogheny river on his way to the Indian wars, only a mud-hole at the bottom of the reservoir.

In preparation for the inundation, the town's only school and church will be razed, along with several other old landmarks, dating from as far back as 1818 when the town was laid out and named Smythfield after Paul Smyth, one of its founders.

The federal government will pay property owners for more than 50 homes and other structures that will be surrendered to the waters, due to reach an approximate depth of 29 feet at this point.

SHERIFF'S SALE

In the first sheriff's sale in Richland county in several weeks, a property in Lucas will be offered at public auction at 10 a. m. Saturday at the courthouse by Sheriff E. P. Long.

Valued at $2,700 the property will be sold on a $3,762 judgment obtained by James Culler against Ralph U. Doerrer.

House Leader

John W. McCormack of Boston, 48-year-old congressman, is the new majority leader in the house of representatives. McCormack, now serving his 13th year in the lower chamber, succeeds Sam Rayburn of Texas, who is the new speaker.

Choir At Senior High School Maps Future Activities

Members of the Senior high school choir were making plans today for a "Get Acquainted" party to be held Oct. 18 in the high school cafeteria.

A. LeMoine Derr, director, said that other events planned for the choir include a minstrel show in December. Employes of the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing company will be cast in the show which will be sponsored by the choir. Proceeds will go into the choir's fund for purchasing robes.

Derr also announced choir members who have been named to various official posts. Billie McQuillen will serve as group leader for the first semester; Maxine Bush as librarian and chairman of the robe committee; Ruth McKee in charge of discipline, daily attendance and attendance at public performances. Robert Early is the choir's student director.

POPEYE— Popeye Can Put 'Em to Sleep!

IT'S SWELL BEIN' HOME, LIKE I SAID YESTIDAY, BUT I CRAVES EXCITEMENT
WHY DON'T YOU SETTLE DOWN, POPEYE?
SWEETPEA NEEDS A WOMAN'S CARE AND A NICE HOME. YOU SHOULD GET MARRIED
AHEM-AH—I JUST KNOW SWEETPEA ADORES ME
GOOD MORNING, DAD, HOW DO YOU FEEL?
TERRIBLE
I COULDN'T SLEEP A WINK LAST NIGHT
I WISH WE COULD DO SOMETHING
I HAVE IT! I'LL CALL UP POPEYE! HE'LL KNOW WHAT TO DO!
SPLENDID, JUNE, ASK HIM TO COME RIGHT OVER 9-27
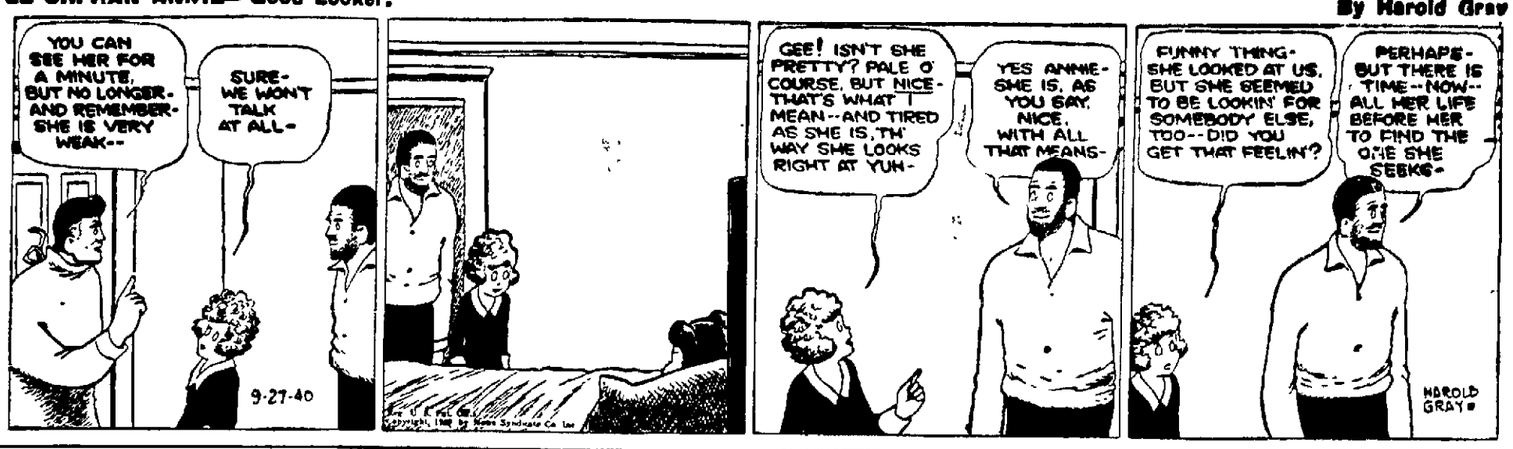
STARTING NEXT WEEK—
"MYSTERY MANSION"
DON'T MISS IT!
IT'S BLOOD-TINGLING, NERVE-WRACKING, ETC.

LITTLE ORPHAN ANNIE— Good Looker.

By Harold Gray



YOU CAN SEE HER FOR A MINUTE, BUT NO LONGER- AND REMEMBER- SHE IS VERY WEAK-- SURE- WE WON'T TALK AT ALL-
9-27-40
GEE! ISN'T SHE PRETTY? PALE O' COURSE, BUT NICE- THAT'S WHAT I MEAN--AND TIRED AS SHE IS, TH' WAY SHE LOOKS RIGHT AT YUH-
YES ANNIE- SHE IS, AS YOU SAY, NICE, WITH ALL THAT MEANS-FUNNY THING- SHE LOOKED AT US, BUT SHE SEEMED TO BE LOOKIN' FOR SOMEBODY ELSE, TOO--DID YOU GET THAT FEELIN'?
PERHAPS- BUT THERE IS TIME--NOW-- ALL HER LIFE BEFORE HER TO FIND THE ONE SHE SEEKS-HAROLD GRAY

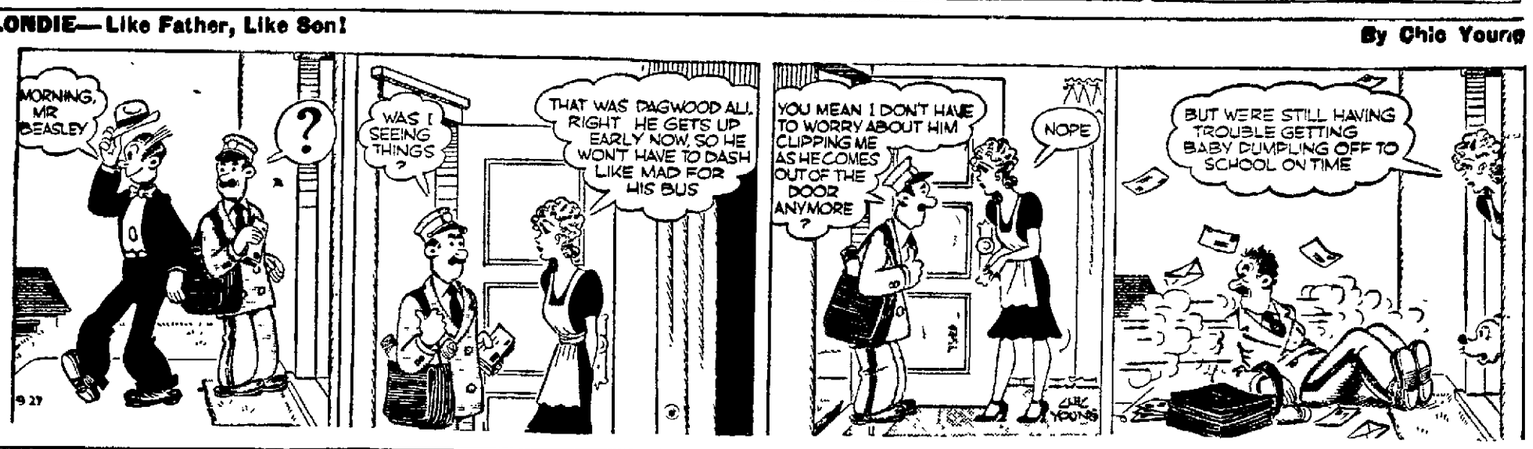
BLONDIE— Like Father, Like Son!

By Chic Young



MORNING, MR BEASLEY
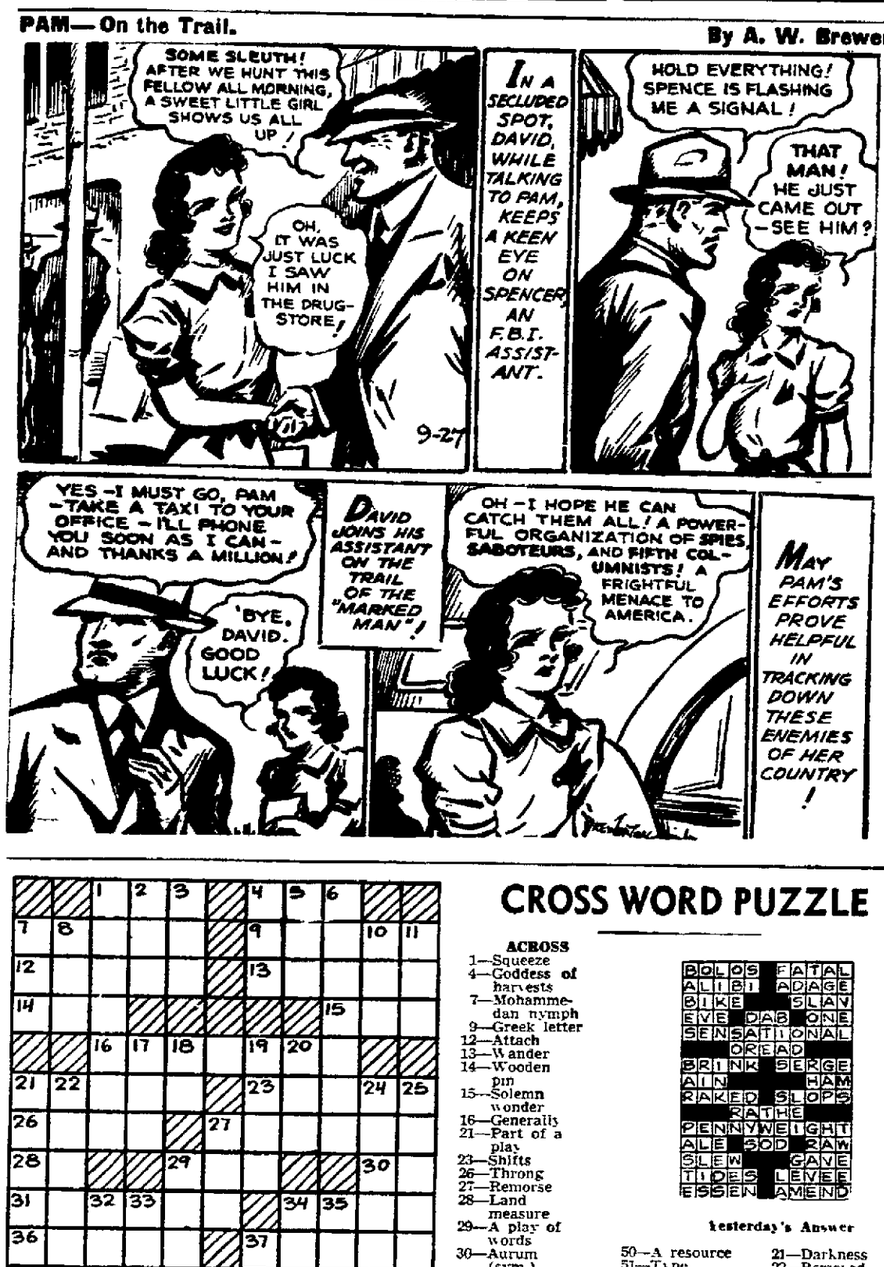
9-27
WAS I SEEING THINGS?
THAT WAS DAGWOOD ALL RIGHT HE GET'S UP EARLY NOW, SO HE WON'T HAVE TO DASH LIKE MAD FOR HIS BUS
YOU MEAN I DON'T HAVE TO WORRY ABOUT HIM CLIPPING ME AS HE COMES OUT OF THE DOOR ANYMORE?
NOPE
BUT WE'RE STILL HAVING TROUBLE GETTING BABY DUMPLING OFF TO SCHOOL ON TIME
CHIC YOUNG

PAM— On the Trail.

By A. W. Brewerton



SOME SLEUTH! AFTER WE HUNT THIS FELLOW ALL MORNING, A SWEET LITTLE GIRL SHOWS US ALL UP!
OH, IT WAS JUST LUCK I SAW HIM IN THE DRUG-STORE!
9-27
IN A SECLUDED SPOT, DAVID, WHILE TALKING TO PAM, KEEPS A KEEN EYE ON SPENCER, AN F.B.I. ASSISTANT.
HOLD EVERYTHING! SPENCE IS FLASHING ME A SIGNAL!
THAT MAN! HE JUST CAME OUT-SEE HIM?
YES-I MUST GO, PAM-TAKE A TAXI TO YOUR OFFICE-I'LL PHONE YOU SOON AS I CAN-AND THANKS A MILLION!
'BYE, DAVID. GOOD LUCK!
DAVID JOINS HIS ASSISTANT ON THE TRAIL OF THE "MARKED MAN"!
OH-I HOPE HE CAN CATCH THEM ALL! A POWERFUL ORGANIZATION OF SPIES, SABOTEURS, AND FIFTH COLUMNISTS! A FRIGHTFUL MENACE TO AMERICA.
MAY PAM'S EFFORTS PROVE HELPFUL IN TRACKING DOWN THESE ENEMIES OF HER COUNTRY!

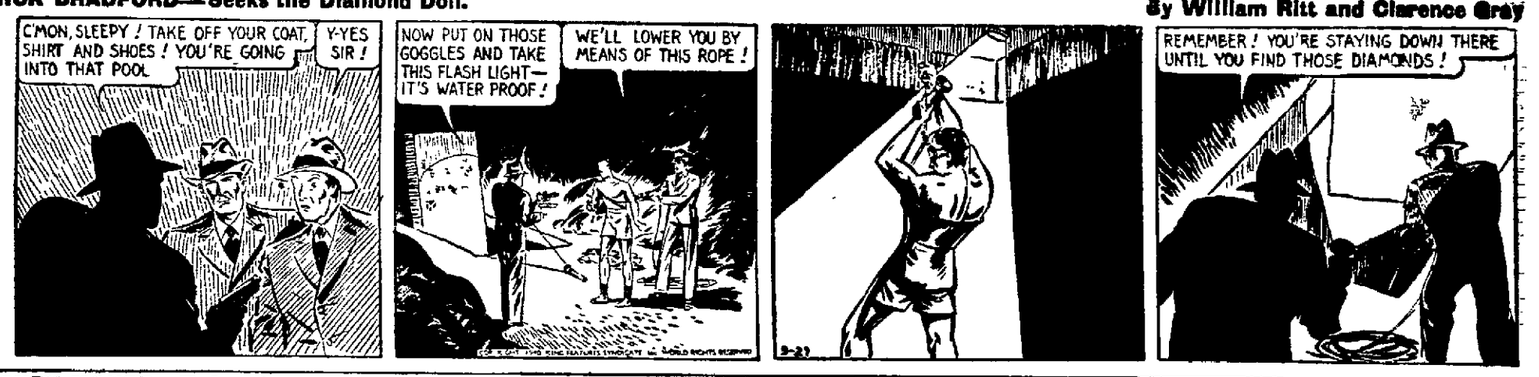
THE NEBBS— Encouraging (?)

By Nol Hess

HELLO, PAL, AREN'T YOU EVER GOING TO COME BACK FROM THIS VACATION?
9-27
THIS IS A NICE, SMART LITTLE TOWN YOU PICKED OUT FOR YOUR SICKNESS- AND I SAW YOUR DAY NURSE. SHE'S A HONEY- WILL YOU CRAWL OVER AND LET ME CONVALESCE WITH YOU?
I'M PRETTY SICK, OBIE
I'LL SAY YOU'RE SICK- IF YOU WERE PROPERLY HOOKED UP YOU COULD HEAT A TEN-ROOM HOUSE WITH THAT FEVER!

BRICK BRADFORD— Seeks the Diamond Doll.

By William Ritt and Clarence Gray



C'MON, SLEEPY! TAKE OFF YOUR COAT, SHIRT AND SHOES! YOU'RE GOING INTO THAT POOL
Y-YES SIR!
NOW PUT ON THOSE GOGGLES AND TAKE THIS FLASH LIGHT- IT'S WATER PROOF!
WE'LL LOWER YOU BY MEANS OF THIS ROPE!
9-27
REMEMBER! YOU'RE STAYING DOWN THERE UNTIL YOU FIND THOSE DIAMONDS!

MICKEY MOUSE— Tom, Dick and "Harry", Too!

By Walt Disney

BUT, MADAM... SURELY, WE CAN ADJUST ANY...!
ADJUST NOTHING! I'LL NOT STAND FOR A PEEPING TOM AT MY KEYHOLE!
DEAR ME... SHE SEEMS TO HAVE CHECKED OUT! DO YOU KNOW ANYTHING ABOUT THIS PEEPING TOM AFFAIR?
YES, SIR! BUT IN THIS CASE IT'S A PEEPING "DICK"...
...IT'S THAT HOUSE DETECTIVE Y' THREW OUT LAST WEEK!
WHAT?!! HIM?? WHY, I'LL KICK HIM SO FAR...!
OH, NO, YUH WON'T! YOU KICK ME AND I'LL KNOW WHO DONE IT... YOU'LL LEAVE FOOTPRINTS!
GOODBYE!

BRINGING UP FATHER—

By George McManus

WELL-I GUESS I'LL MAKE OUT A COUPLE OF CHECKS- WHILE I'M WAITING FOR MAGGIE TO FINISH DRESSIN'-
RATS! THE OLD LAMP BULB BLEW OUT-
BY GOLLY- I CAN'T SEE A THING - OH- MAGGIE- WILL YOU COME IN HERE FER A MINUTE?
THANKS-

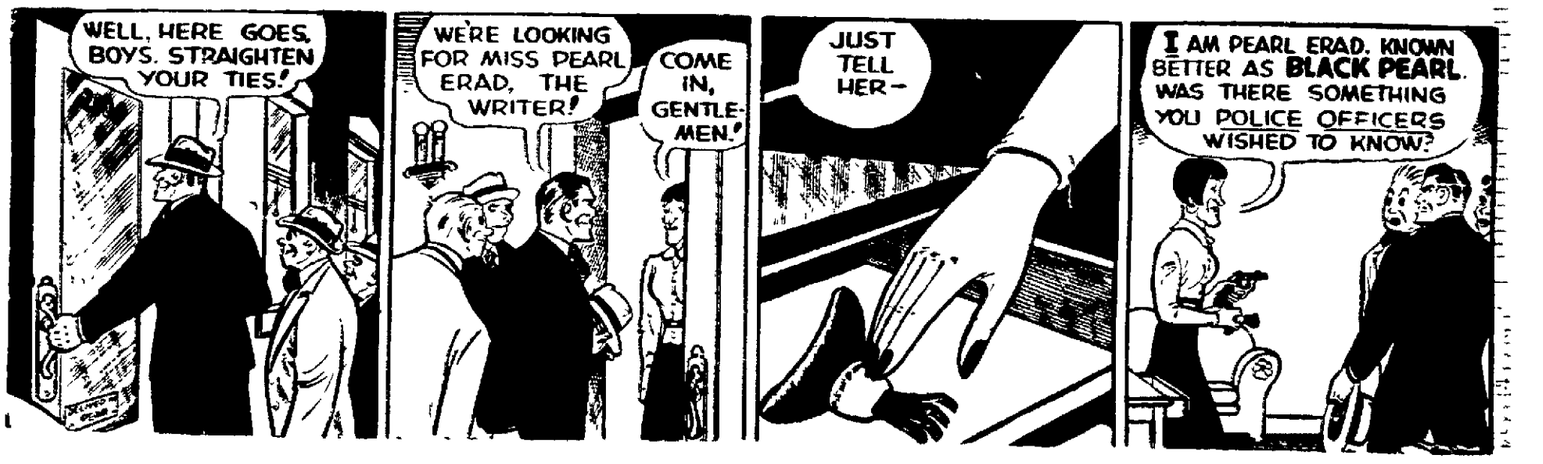
THE GUMPS— Romeo Takes a Run-Out!

By Gus Edson

WHY THIS PANIC? ALL YOU'D HAVE TO DO IS TELL TILDA THAT YOU'RE ALREADY MARRIED-I'M SURE SHE'D UNDERSTAND THAT IT'S ALL A MISTAKE-
ACTIONS SPEAK LOUDER THAN LOUD SPEAKERS- SUPPOSE HORATIUS HAD HESITATED AT THE BRIDGE-OR WELLINGTON AT WATERLOO! I'M BEATING IT!!
9-27
B-BUT WHAT'LL I DO? YOU'RE LEAVING ME ALONE TO FACE THE MUSIC!
THE ONLY MUSIC THAT OLD MAID UNDERSTANDS IS- LOHENGRIN'S WEDDING MARCH- AND I'VE HEARD THAT TUNE JUST ONCE TOO OFTEN ALREADY! GOODBYE!

DICK TRACY— Anything at All.

—By CHESTER GOULD



WELL, HERE GOES, BOYS. STRAIGHTEN YOUR TIES!
WE'RE LOOKING FOR MISS PEARL ERAD, THE WRITER!
COME IN, GENTLEMEN!
JUST TELL HER-
I AM PEARL ERAD. KNOWN BETTER AS BLACK PEARL. WAS THERE SOMETHING YOU POLICE OFFICERS WISHED TO KNOW?

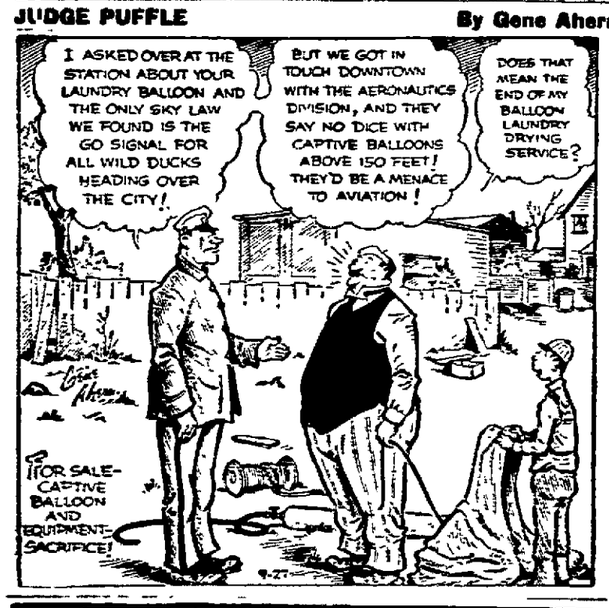
JUDGE PUFFLE

By Gene Ahern



I ASKED OVER AT THE STATION ABOUT YOUR LAUNDRY BALLOON AND THE ONLY SKY LAW WE FOUND IS THE GO SIGNAL FOR ALL WILD DUCKS HEADING OVER THE CITY!
BUT WE GOT IN TOUCH DOWNTOWN WITH THE AERONAUTICS DIVISION, AND THEY SAY NO DICE WITH CAPTIVE BALLOONS ABOVE 150 FEET! THEY'D BE A MENACE TO AVIATION!
DOES THAT MEAN THE END OF MY BALLOON LAUNDRY DRYING SERVICE?
FOR SALE- CAPTIVE BALLOON AND EQUIPMENT- SACRIFICE!

DEAR NOAH- DO YOU SUPPOSE THE LITTLE INK DROP WOULD BE BLUE IF IT KNEW THAT ITS FATHER WAS IN THE PEN TO BEGIN A LONG SENTENCE?
NORMA HOTSLER, COMFREY, MINN.
DEAR NOAH- DOES THE FLYING SQUIRREL TRAVEL BIPLANE?

HAVE PRUNES

SAN JOSE, Cal.—(UP)—Frank Shay, president of the California Prune Growers' Association has notified all members that Europe is sufficiently stocked with prunes for a long war. He said European countries began stocking up on prunes immediately after Munich, and warned members there will be no war price boom for prunes.

There are 3,000 cocoa plantations in Venezuela.

TIME SHORT ON REGISTRATIONS

Election Board Estimates 4,000 in City Still To Be Qualified to Vote.

be back to the election board by the evening of Oct. 31.

Mansfield voters will have four ballots to mark on election day, Clerk A. F. Porter of the election board said.

One ballot, almost square, will bear the names of the two party candidates for president and vice president. A large one will have the state and county Democratic and Republican tickets with a third column at the right for independent candidates. Another long, narrow ballot will bear the names of supreme court, appeals court, and probate court judge candidates, while the fourth will be a special issue ballot for the proposed one-mill operating levy in Mansfield.

Other districts in the county which will have no tax levies or bond issues to vote on will have only three ballots.

The election board asked for bids today on 44,725 of each of the county-wide ballots. Contract for printing the ballots probably will be let Monday, board officials said.

Only independent state or county candidate listed on the ballot is George Neffner, present secretary of state, seeking re-election for the unexpired term of the late Earl Griffith of Mt. Gilead. The term would include the period from the November election to January when the new secretary of state will take office.

Tri-Partite Alliance Formed Against U. S.

Axis Prepares to Deal With Spain as 'Mother Country' of Latin America In Further Threat.

this regard are not yet complete, this arrangement stands in the offing as "another vital and potential link in the Axis anti-American front."

The pact was signed in the chancellery before an audience composed mostly of journalists. No diplomats were present except German, Italian and Japanese keymen. Ironically, in view of the nature of the pact, the Japanese ambassador, Saburo Kurusu, is married to an American woman. The Japanese envoy was the only official present in civilian clothes.

Hans Dieckhoff, German ambassador to Washington long since recalled, was among the Germans present. Others were Chief of Staff Marshal Wilhelm Keitel, air force Marshal Ernst Milch, flying ace Ernest Udet and Heinrich Himmler, chief of the Gestapo.

Signing of the agreement took but ten minutes. While Von Ribbentrop started reading an official German declaration, Hitler leaned back in his red leather chair, staring at the chandelier. He remained silent through the proceeding, but conversed with the emissaries in his study later.

The agreement, with its strong anti-American implications, came hardly as a surprise to correspondents in Berlin. In the last few days a marked inclination to regard Americans living in Berlin as allies of Great Britain has been noticeable in the capital.

Under terms of the agreement, Foreign Minister Von Ribbentrop announced, Germany and Italy recognize Japan's leadership in expanding and creating a "new order" in the Far East.

In return, his announcement said, Japan sanctions and approves the search by Germany and Italy for increased "living space" in Europe.

Any power not engaged in hostilities at present which seeks to intervene in the affairs of or attack and partner in the history-making agreement "will have to deal with the concentrated power of 250,000,000 people" Von Ribbentrop said.

Should such aggression occur, the three powers will cooperate on a basis "under which they will assume mutual obligations and assist each other by economic, military and political means."

Inasmuch as the United States and Soviet Russia are the sole major powers at present not engaged in conflict, the warning to America was clear.

In disclosing the agreement, Von Ribbentrop said it would prove of "greatest importance to the three countries concerned as well as to the world."

The pact stated:

"The three governments consider it a pre-condition for lasting peace that every nation receive the room due it."

Von Ribbentrop signed for Germany, Foreign Minister Count Galeazzo Ciano for Italy and the Japanese ambassador for his government.

The pact stated that Germany, Italy and Japan are resolved to co-operate in Europe and in greater east Asia with the foremost aim of creating a new order for the welfare of nations."

The six point pact provides:

1. Japan recognizes and respects the leadership of Germany and Italy in creating a new order in Europe.
2. Germany and Italy recognize and respect Japanese leadership in establishing a new order in greater east Asia.
3. The three nations have agreed upon common economic and military measures and to stand together if an outside power opposes any one of the three.
4. Should opposition from an outside power become threatening, Germany, Italy and Japan will consult upon steps to be taken.
5. There will be no change in the status quo in individual relations between Germany, Italy and Japan on the one hand and Soviet Russia on the other.
6. The pact becomes effective immediately upon signature and will remain in effect for 10 years.

The provisions of the pact said Germany, Italy and Japan will co-operate on a basis under which they will assume mutual obligations and assist each other by economic, military and political means in the event any one of them is attacked by a power engaged in the present European conflict.

They also stipulated that negotiations must be started well in advance of expiration of the pact in the event any of the contracting parties desires its prolongation.

Technical commissions will be appointed immediately by the three governments to decide upon details.

After looking at the German, Japanese and Italian texts of the accord, Chancellor Hitler entered the diplomatic reception hall of the chancellor and shook hands with Von Ribbentrop, Count Ciano and the Japanese envoy.

Von Ribbentrop addressed the large diplomatic assembly when the ceremony was complete.

"The German nation," he declared, "is entitled to a share in the resources of the world just as other nations.

"Germany does not aspire to infringe upon the interests of other nations.

"But the National Socialist government is determined to safeguard vital German interests.

"The intenable world constellation is breaking down under Italian and German military blows.

"An international plot has succeeded in plunging the world into a bloody war. Proclamation of the tri-partite pact is aimed at establishing a new order in Europe and the Far East. The pact therefore is not directed against any other nations but against war mongers who are endeavoring to prolong and extend the war.

"The decisive part of the pact is the military alliance between the three most powerful nations of the world.

"The pact primarily is destined to help restore peace in the world as soon as possible.

"Every nation in the world is sincerely welcome to join in the pact and to co-operate.

"Any nation, however, which intends to intervene in solution of problems as outlined in the pact or to attack any partner in the pact will have to deal with the concentrated power of 250,000,000 people.

"The pact therefore will serve in securing world peace. The Italian and Japanese peoples are united with the people of the reich in unshakeable determination to fight to safeguard our freedom and future and a new and better order of lasting peace."

On behalf of the German government, Von Ribbentrop then addressed greetings to the Italian and Japanese emperors, Premier Mussolini and the Japanese government.

Count Ciano then rose to address the assemblage. Facing Von Ribbentrop and Chancellor Hitler, he said:

"The three powers we represent do not wish to challenge or threaten anyone.

"Today's alliance has been framed to prevent unnecessary extension of the present conflict, and the bloc resulting from union of the military and civilian strength of three empires will represent a powerful wall against which any attempt to spread the conflagration further is bound to shatter itself.

"The effects and importance of the agreement reach far beyond the present situation.

"It means the permanent cleavage of three peoples. This solidarity, now agreed upon, becomes a creative force which affects not only the present but the future as well."

Then came the turn of Japanese Ambassador Saburo Kurusu, who said:

"The final aim of this pact is a general and lasting world peace based upon right and justice.

"The agreement in no way affects the present political situation existing between Japan, Germany and Italy on one side and the Soviet Union on the other.

"It is our hope that the pact, in the hands of three champions of justice, will become a sword in the hand of a righteous warrior, thus contributing to establishment of universal peace."

Japanese Press Warns U. S. To 'Keep Hands Off' Far East

(By International News Service)

TOKYO—The controlled press of Tokyo warned today that a "frontal clash" between essential interests of Japan and the United States is becoming inevitable.

Assailing the "hostile meddling" of the United States even as Japanese officialdom sought to minimize the anti-American aspects of the tri-partite agreement signed in Berlin, Tokyo newspapers bluntly told Washington to keep its hands off Japanese affairs.

Japanese officials were openly indignant over the embargo on export of scrap iron to this country decreed by President Roosevelt yesterday, declaring that Japan's policy of expansion to the south is "immutable" despite American opposition.

But it was left to the press to express in outspoken form the present state of the Japanese mind.

The influential newspaper Asahi Shimbun said:

"A frontal clash seems inevitable.

"Japan has been compelled to take a certain position to overcome obstacles to her establishment of an East Asiatic sphere. Against this position is the hostile meddling of the United States, which is bent on baiting these Japanese efforts by persistent interference in the Far East.

"The rapidly mounting American hostility to Japan constitutes a challenge which requires firm determination on our part."

A foreign office spokesman, however, insisted that Japan was "not impatient" with the United States and remained ready for amicable discussions.

"It is essential that Japan does not become impatient until the last moment," he said.

The spokesman refused comment on reports that Great Britain, the United States and Japan would follow up the new Japan-Axis pact with another treaty to assure the satisfaction of the Pacific.

Questioned regarding Japan's attitude toward the United States as a result of Secretary of State Cordell Hull's statement opposing Japan's move in French Indo-China the spokesman said:

"Japan's views have been made known repeatedly in numerous utterances and conferences between the Japanese ambassador in Washington and statesmen of the United States. No further comment is necessary."

One correspondent at the press conference asked whether the time for words had passed. The reply was:

"Words will always be necessary."

GREAT AERIAL BATTLE WAGED IN LONDON SKY

Long-Range Artillery Duel Also Carried on Across English Channel.

yet against Germany and her trans-channel coasts.

Eighteen German planes were reported brought down over southeast England this morning alone. The British press association said at least 13 of them were shot down in the London area.

One huge formation of 60 bombers which attacked a town on the southwest coast was scattered by British fighting planes after some bombs were dropped. One small bomber was forced down on a southwest beach and the crew of three made prisoners.

At the same time the air ministry declared "particularly heavy damage" was inflicted in mass attacks on Le Havre, on Kiel, the German naval base and terminus of the vital Kiel canal, and other "military objectives in northwest Germany."

Observers saw almost continuous strings of livid fires set up all along the coast opposite Dover in these night attacks. The bomb flashes of bombs and explosions were described as so intense that they blotted out with their glare the blaze of German searchlights swinging in the skies.

The British also singled out Germany's internal waterways for attack.

The Germans renewed their mass daylight attacks after the 20th night of London's air siege in which the force of a scattered German offensive appeared to dwindle.

Although huge numbers of German planes came over in the three day-light raids, only a few penetrated the wall of bursting steel thrown up by anti-aircraft fire and the patrols of British fighters watching above the clouds.

One formation of 15, however, was seen streaking through puffs of anti-aircraft fire by observers in the center of the city.

One bomb fell in south London causing many casualties. Other explosives were dumped in a southwest London district.

An explosion of a time bomb after the all-clear early today also wrecked four houses in the northern part of the city, and some persons were reported buried under wreckage of houses in another part of north London.

Considerable damage also was reported in night attacks in Merseyside — around Liverpool's port and ship-building facilities — in residential Southampton, the great southern naval base, where two waves of raiders came over, and in a northwest town which was given its worst bombing of the war.

Many fires were started in the Merseyside area, but casualties were reported light considering the quantity of explosives dropped.

The air ministry said 34 German planes were destroyed in yesterday's raids, while eight British planes were lost.

Spitfire Plant Reported Hit

BERLIN—(AP)—Britain's Spitfire assembly plant at Woolston, near Southhampton—the place where she fits together some of her staunchest defense planes—was squarely hit in yesterday's German air-strafing of England, the high command reported today.

"Tremendous destruction" was caused by hits on hangars and factory buildings, said the communique.

In central England, it said, Nazi raiders hit armament plants hard, causing great explosions and huge fires. Locks and merchant ships were hit at Liverpool.

The communique disclosed that long range naval batteries bombarded Dover and a British convoy bombarded off the Scottish coast.

The high command reported that a German submarine sank two armed British merchantmen, totaling 8,700 tons, giving no further details, and said that the British lost 27 planes yesterday to Germany's six.

British attacks on German-held Belgium and France as well as northwestern Germany were acknowledged, but the high command said the attackers were in small force and dropped bombs "aimlessly," causing no military damage.

PACT CAUSES NO SURPRISE

Washington Expected Tie-Up; Sees Other Diplomatic Steps by U. S.

new vigor to create "a new order in East Asia."

The fanfare attached to the signing of the new alliance in Berlin was considered in official quarters here as a further sign that the war against Britain was not progressing according to Nazi time-tables and, it was implied, a diplomatic "victory" would be encouraging to the German people.

The possible effect of the new alliance on Russian-German relations also was a subject of interest.

There was no disposition in official quarters, however, to expect any immediate break between Germany and Russia.

The immediate purpose of the pact was recognized in informed Washington circles as an attempt to divide American attention between Europe and the Orient with a view to keeping the United States out of the war, reducing its aid to Great Britain, and restraining American resistance to Japan's attempt to dominate all East Asia.

Mr. Roosevelt's order banning iron and steel scrap exports to all but western hemisphere nations and Great Britain was interpreted here as the immediate answer to Japan's present operations in Indo-China. Japan has relied heavily on American scrap for the needs of her war economy.

Other economic weapons, diplomatic sources said, were being held in reserve for use if Japan continued the line of action described in official quarters here as "her challenge" to the whole American policy on a Far Eastern Status quo.

Some American steelmen endorsed the scrap iron embargo as a "step in the right direction," saying that domestic scrap inventories were "dangerously low" and that a large supply of the metal was essential for defense program requirements.

JURORS TO OPEN FALL TERM OF COURT MONDAY

6 Cases on Docket for Trial During Week; All Involve Damage Claims.

The newly fall term petit jury will go into action Monday morning in Richland county common pleas court with five cases scheduled for trial during four days of the week.

All five of the cases involve actions for damages with the amounts ranging from $150 to $50,300. Three were filed as the result of traffic accidents.

First on the docket for hearing at 9 a. m. Monday is a suit for $150 damages to a fence in front of the home of A. T. Leedy south of Bellville. Leedy brought the action against John W. Davis and Hugh Hartman, jr., charging that their car crashed through the fence last March 9, destroying sections of it and damaging the lawn.

Leedy will be represented by Atty. Vance Stuller, Bellville, while Attys. McNamar and Ashcraft of Newark will argue the case for the defendants.

In another case set for Monday, O. G. Spurgeon seeks a $630 judgment from John C. Karcher for alleged breach of contract for the construction of a house for Karcher. Atty. Marshall Moore is counsel for the plaintiff.

A suit for $5,120 damages against Dr. Bernard W. Stern, Mansfield, is on the calendar for Tuesday. Mrs. Lucy Denero filed the action, charging that Dr. Stern pulled a tooth for her and left the roots in the gum, allegedly causing infection and impairment of her health. Atty. George Biddle represents Mrs. Denero and Attys. Arthur Negin and Lewis Brucker are counsel for the defendant.

On Thursday calendar is a case involving a $25,000 personal damage action against Charles Coleman whose car figured in a traffic accident in Shelby, allegedly injuring Rheabelle Barnhart, the plaintiff. The accident occurred May 25, 1939. Attys. Beam and Beam represents the plaintiff and Stuart H. Sramer is Coleman's attorney.

The jury is scheduled to hear a suit Friday in which Harold L. Shanks, as a guardian, seeks $50,300 damages from Mabel Jameson and others of Columbus for injuries suffered by Laverne Shanks of Mansfield in a traffic accident Dec. 10, 1937 in Mansfield.

The plaintiff contends that his ward became insane as a result of head injuries received in the crash and was taken to a state hospital. Attys. Will and Lutz and A. S. Beach are counsel for Shanks, while Atty. Stuart H. Cramer will represent the defendants.

Wednesday will be an open date on the calendar to permit Common Pleas Judge C. H. Huston to hear 69 applications for citizenship papers.

STAGE RALLY

Senior High Pupils Hold Pre-Game Pep Meeting.

In preparation for tonight's football game with Elyria, Senior high school pupils today staged a pep meeting in the school auditorium.

Cheer leaders Joseph Bauderer, Patricia Bancroft, William Lake, Joan Watson, Glendale Uhlich, Marilou Sowash, Larry Bergstrom, and Dorothy Swartzel led several cheers and songs by the student body. A short comedy skit was presented by Eugene Gump.

Coach Paul Snyder gave a short address and he then introduced members of the football squad.

The high school band played several numbers during the assembly.

PIONEERS TILT FOR APPLESEED

School Selects Nickname For Athletic Teams Through Spirited Balloting.

Balloting to select a name for the Johnny Appleseed Junior high school football team came to a close yesterday with the "Johnny Appleseed Pioneers" winning by a slight margin.

All week students crowded around the ballot boxes placed in strategic places throughout the building and filled their choice.

Last week students handed in suggestions for naming the team and six of them were selected by a teacher committee to be put to a vote.

The names selected by the committee composed of Ania Strauch, W. B. Huber, Paul Cameron, and Ellen Garner—were the "Pioneers," "Little Giants," "Appleseedlings," "Slippery Seeds," "Minutemen," and the "Travelers."

Four pupils suggested the winning name. They were Jack Leonard, Claire Hamblin, Janet Perez and Joanne Leppert, in that order. When a pupil handed in a suggestion, the time was marked on the ballot.

Favor Permanent Training Program

SOME IDEA of a changing American attitude toward the need for stronger national defense is seen in the American Legion advocacy of a permanent system of universal military training and the effort already being made to lower the registration age to 18 years.

Resolutions adopted at the American Legion convention in Boston yesterday not only favored making a year's training obligatory for all young men but also declared in favor of aiding Great Britain "by every means short of war," a change from last year's Legion support of a policy of strict neutrality.

In behalf of reducing the registration minimum to 18 years, which it is believed congress will be asked to act upon at its next session, it is argued by proponents that at this age most boys complete their high school education and that a year's training at that age would be less likely to disrupt future plans than if deferred until later.

All of this must be regarded as a long range program, however, in which happenings of the next few months, or years, will play a considerable part in reaching decisions.

A more immediate problem is that of speeding the production of war equipment, for defensive use and such aid as can be given to Great Britain, and also by carrying through a training program as rapidly as possible under provisions of the present conscription law.

With October 16 set as registration day, for all men between the ages of 21 and 35, there has been a rather disturbing slow-up in choosing personnel and completing regulations intended for the guidance of local draft boards. This is an immense task, however, and one that will require wholehearted co-operation by those state and local officials upon whom responsibility is being placed.

There's Something About a Carnival

FOR the first time in many years a carnival has come to up-town Mansfield. Older residents will recall a Third street carnival of around thirty years ago, also a time when carnival attractions were placed in the Central park vicinity.

And—surprising as it may be to those of the younger generation who are enjoying their first merry-go-round or Ferris wheel ride—the carnivals of those days were strikingly similar to the present-day model, except for the lack of motorized transportation.

The occasion for this carnival—completion of the Fourth street repaving from Diamond to Mulberry street—is sufficient to justify the departure from civic routine which it represents.

Merchants in this district, who have been deprived of customary patronage for several months, are anxious to have the people of Mansfield and vicinity renew their acquaintance with business places in these three blocks and to resume the habit of driving and walking along Fourth street when it is convenient to do so.

Much of the carnival spirit results from mingling with crowds which are in constant motion in the carnival area; watching the expression on faces of bingo players, shooting gallery patrons and attendants; listening to the frightened or pleased squeals of riders on the various devices, and noting the enjoyment of younger children to whom all this is a new experience.

For older persons to thoroughly enjoy a carnival there is need for memory and imagination—memory, for instance, of their own first ride on a merry-go-round, and imagination that places them again in a mental attitude of vicarious enjoyment in association with younger people who are getting a lot of fun out of the carnival.

So, just for this once, why not attend the carnival on Fourth street tonight or tomorrow afternoon and night—you'll probably never again have such an opportunity in up-town Mansfield.

Do You Know About the Penalty?

MAYBE you didn't know it, but the Ohio law provides a penalty of six months in jail or a $500 fine, or both, if you operate a car without having a driver's license—or drive next Tuesday, or thereafter, without getting a new license.

But that's the way Cylon W. Wallace, state registrar of motor vehicles, tells it—and he should know.

And here it's Friday, September 27 already, and more than seven thousand Mansfield and Richland county motorists have only two days left in which to get a new license—if they plan to drive next Tuesday without laying themselves liable to a fine or jail sentence. (Offices of deputy registrars are not to be opened on Sunday.)

Just how more than seven thousand licenses can be issued between now and next Monday evening at 8 o'clock is a problem, although the Auto club offices (basement Elks' building, Third and Mulberry streets) will be open from 8:30 a. m. to 8 p. m. tomorrow and Monday, and until 8 o'clock tonight.

So, if you have not already done so, get your driver's license tonight, tomorrow or Monday—or don't drive your car next Tuesday!

No Place for Favoritism

WHATEVER may have been the preferential treatment accorded members of the Roosevelt family, in matters of large earnings being made possible for ordinary services, there can be no public tolerance of such evidence of preference extending to any of the Roosevelt sons under the selective service law.

Whether or not there was such intention, the subject has been brought forcibly to public notice by General Hugh S. Johnson in an article in which he directs attention to the appointment of Second Lieut. Elliott Roosevelt as a captain in the air corps, at $200 a month, this promotion as high as $116 a month.

According to General Johnson, this is a rule that requires no flying, or what is called in the air force a "desk-wing"—a bird without wings.

General Johnson, who co-ordinated the 1917 draft plan and was in executive charge of the selective draft, agrees that the present selective service law must be administered impartially or "the scheme won't work."

"Nobody must be favored," he says. "No pull over any clever little schemes to get one boy out of the draft while another, with no more reason not to serve, is taken."

Concluding reference to the appointment, General Johnson says: "It is so rare that I am sure of one thing—the President either didn't know about it, or else didn't give a thought to the implications . . . Guiltless as I believe this act to be at heart, it ought to be undone just as quickly as it was performed. Otherwise it will remain a stench to heaven."

THAT POLL MAN IS HERE AGAIN!

Huge Spending Despite Hatch Act

—By CARTER FIELD

WASHINGTON — The original idea of the Hatch act was magnificent. There can be no doubt about it. All the arguments against it at the time of its passage were lame—obviously so. For example, the plea of Senator Alben W. Barkley, of Kentucky, that if federal employes could not be used by federal candidates, whereas state employes were not restrained, it would be tough on the federal candidates!

Barkley was the target of cartoonists and editorial writers all over the country regardless of party. What was bothering the Kentucky senator, of course, was that he was in a tough fight for renomination at the time in the Democratic senatorial primary. His opponent was the then governor of Kentucky, "Happy" A. B. Chandler.

Barkley was renominated and reelected, and Chandler later got into the senate also, following the death of Senator Logan, so that particular "crisis" has passed. Incidentally Chandler and Barkley are now good friends. Neither has anything to lose by being friendly with the other.

BUT when congress came along this spring and amended the Hatch act by its various limitations, it really opened the door to the craziest sort of presidential campaign in the country's history, so far as the financing on both sides is concerned.

For instance, the limitation on the national committee of each party is $3,000,000 of expenditures. That sounds like a lot of money. It is. But then bobs up the old notion of the politicians that certain expenditures simply must be made.

Literature, for example—pamphlets and leaflets, streamers, windshield stickers and buttons. Does the distribution of any one of these, or all of them, change any votes? Nobody really knows, but the average politician thinks it would be simply murder to stop furnishing them.

Then there is the question of advertising, not only in regular newspapers, but in magazines, special programs of groups which think they merit recognition, billboards, street car ads, etc.

One of the big committees has not allowed a nickel in its budget for any one of the above! No committee of any party ever thought it had one-tenth as much as should be spent on every one of these items.

Then there is the foreign language press, and the negro press. Both parties in the past have always subsidized them to a perfectly absurd degree.

SO FAR one might think, studying this situation, that the Hatch act limitation, with a few possible exceptions, such as honest advertising, is a blessing in disguise. Incidentally, for some reason which has always been a mystery to the writer, the country seemed to take the position, some years back, that spending a lot of money on newspaper advertising for political purposes was a wicked thing.

Remember Truman H. Newbury, of Michigan, who was elected to the senate, and then pilloried because more than $300,000 had been spent to nominate and elect him? He was almost expelled from the senate, and felt so chagrinned at the result that he subsequently resigned. Incidentally every senator who voted against expelling him found himself the target on that issue next time he came up for reelection.

Well, the fact is that most of the money spent for Newbury was spent on newspaper advertising!

But the joker of the whole situation at present is the way both major parties are benefitting from huge expenditures OUTSIDE the scope of the national committees, and beyond the reach of the Hatch act. Probably, on the whole, more money is being wasted this year on foolish campaign spending than ever before because there is no one power which can control ALL the spending on either side.

Listen, World!

Bayou and Blessing.

—By ELSIE ROBINSON

PULLING out from New Orleans—how I hate to leave it! Gay, narrow streets of the old French quarter. Friendly brown faces melting into the shadows. Gracious white hands waving from balcony and patio—fluttering, fading like white moths in the dusk. Then the old city with its crumbling mansions and its tumbling church bells is gone.

And broad and brown "Ole Man River" rolls hisse'f along. Old Man River movin' down lak Judgment Day—nobody and nothin' standin' in his way, feeding white folks, black folks and carryin' on his chest all their lil' dreams 'n' hopes, life 'n' love 'n' death. Ole Man River quiet, deep and strong, jess you keep roll right along, don't you start adrownin' their poor little song.

Then the river too is past. And now, quick as though they'd swallowed you up with the daylight, the swamps and the bayous come crowding around you, go reaching out and out. You lean out, watching the waters creeping and crawling, hearing some voice deep inside you calling and calling—

Amazing! Barely ten minutes ago taxis and telephones. Now this! "Gloom of the live oaks, intricately braided and woven—"

Remember Sidney Lanier's lovely "Marshes of Glynn"? Flickering pattern of sunbeam and shade. Endless green twilight under those tangles of trees, webbed all together with lacework of trailing gray moss. Thickets of palmetto where the water lies dim and unmoving, filled with its blind, secret life. Ancient cranes brooding, crafty eyes masked in false sleep. Hump-backed turtles sunning themselves on a log.

And something else — lurking, long, snouted — something that looks like a log. Then suddenly moves, lashing out in gray fury, turning time back to the years before men ever came.

Dark waters coiling, tall live oaks bending, dipping their pale moss in warm, teeming slime. And high above, sharp as a b[illegible] call, the clean, swift scarlet of a trumpet vine.

"Gloom of the live oaks"— this too gives way to lush, flat acres of the sugar cane, clutters of friendly shacks and open creeks where, day and night, the little boats slip in and out, down to the Gulf for shrimps.

Have you heard of the blessing of these boats at Atchalafaya River? Each year when the season opens, around August 1, there are high doings there. For the good priest has come from New Orleans to bless the fleet and the fishermen. And after the blessing there's laughter and dancing, fish fries and fiesta, with thousands of good shrimp given away and many a dark eye warming to sudden dreams.

Blessing the fleet and the fishers? Why should you think that's strange? It's we who are strange for having forgotten the dignity and honest joy that lies in all the simple services of life. For there's never a loaf baked or a shirt mended or a ton of potatoes but a miracle happens, the people of a man working with his food and his heart as well as his flesh with the labor of his hands, and humbly touching another, greater Hand.

And I'm wishing we could go back to the old believing days our fathers' fathers knew and bless not only the fishing fleet with prayer and dancing, but every other common chore for the pride and comfort it gives.

"Gloom of the live oaks, [illegible] braided and woven—"

Sunshine of simple lives braided and woven into the infinite plan of their Father.

Draft Resistance Not Expected; Trainer Says Youth Getting Soft

—By DREW PEARSON and ROBERT S. ALLEN

WASHINGTON—Philadelphia's Jack Kelly, who has been asked by the president to draw up a program for civilian health training, has some observations worth noting regarding the physical softness of the American people.

He points out that we now ride in automobiles instead of walking, sit down at machines in factories, have devised every conceivable means of taking life easy. Even in football, Kelly points out, 80,000 people will gather to see 22 play.

And when young people go to parties they don't even start until 11 p. m., whereas most people used to be in bed by midnight. The kids are drinking and carousing entirely too much, says Kelly, and the nation has grown so soft that he predicts only 33 per cent of the men drafted will be found physically fit.

Kelly, once a crack oarsman, will recommend a physical culture course for the nation.

Draft Worries.

WAR DEPARTMENT officials are hoping that when they register the draft on October 16, they will have no such difficulties as in 1917. At that time, men got out their shotguns and squirrel rifles in certain parts of the country and indicated they preferred to fight the draft rather than fight the Germans.

In Texas, the Farmers and Laborers Protective association held a state convention, May 5, 1917, in which leaders denounced the president, the congress and the draft. They urged members to equip themselves with rifles and ammunition for resistance to draft officers. Local officials who denounced them were marked for death.

The organization was disbanded, however, when the justice department investigated.

Other states where resistance was offered were North Carolina, Montana, Oklahoma, Georgia, Virginia, West Virginia, Utah and Arizona.

Touring With Willkie.

WILLKIE'S campaign entourage was disconcerted by his mishaps at the start in Chicago, but they now feel it was all for the best because he learned valuable lessons which should stand him in good stead for the rest of the battle.

The experience forcibly impressed on the dynamic GOP standard bearer the desirability of a slower and more dignified pace. He concluded his western tour as a far more effective campaigner. But the training certainly was obtained the hard way—not only by Willkie but by members of his personal staff.

On the first days out on the trip, relations between Russell ("Mich") Davenport, former Fortune editor and Willkie "discoverer," and Howard Gallagher, in charge of the train's schedule, became so frigid that they stopped talking to each other. Most of the other members of the entourage also sputtered privately about "Mich."

One reason for this was a $269 telephone bill which Davenport ran up in calls to Chicago. John Hollister, former Ohio congressman and law partner of Senator Bob Taft, who acted as political contact man on the tour and was very successful at the job, finally smoothed things out. But it took some pointed talking—including one lecture to Willkie himself.

Hollister asked a barber shaving him what he thought of Willkie, and got the reply: "If I had been for him I wouldn't be now. His cuss words are not the kind of language we like to hear from a president." Hollister bluntly related the incident to Willkie.

High and Low Spots.

AS ON ALL campaign trips, there were high spots and low spots. Willkie drew excellent crowds, but in some places his enthusiastic boosters were overzealous in their predictions.

In Los Angeles, 60,000 turned out to hear him—a superb showing. But it was below the 100,000 he was assured would be present. Also, the movie colony in Hollywood was cool, with only around 3,000 in the Bowl, which can accommodate 35,000.

The only big screen figure present was Robert Montgomery, who introduced the candidate. This was a big disappointment to the correspondents. They were all keyed up to see Dorothy Lamour, Hedy Lamarr and other glamour girls—but none showed up, and later it developed they were all for Roosevelt.

After the big Los Angeles reception Thursday, Willkie's staff didn't have the heart that night to show him the latest Gallup poll figures. They let him have a peaceful night's sleep and produced the report at breakfast next morning.

At Bakersfield, where a "Frontier Days" rodeo was in progress, the local morning paper promised a crowd of 100,000 for Willkie's appearance. Only 7,000 showed up for the 10 a. m. meeting. A taxi driver explained, "They like to sleep late in this town."

The stop at Modesto provided a big laugh for everyone, including the candidate. A local GOP celebrity introduced Willkie with a rhetorical flourish that concluded with this gem: "Not only is he the friend of the farmer and the laboring man, but also the great friend of the public utilities."

Note—Willkie has changed his mind about ghost writers. Several months ago he lambasted their use, but his farm speech is largely the work of Representative Cliff Hope of Kansas, one of the chief authors of the GOP agricultural plank. Hope was assisted by Don Berry, able Indianola, Ia., newsman, and other midwestern leaders.

Hull's "Dastardly" Word.

FOLLOWING Cordell Hull's press conference in which he characterized the sinking of the British refugee ship as "a most dastardly act," newsmen asked permission to use direct quotes, usually not allowed in state department practice.

Hull was willing, and his press officer, Sheldon Thomas, brought the word to the press room, where the men were already dictating their stories. Thomas advised each man in turn, including the German DNB correspondent, Kurt Sell.

"O. K.," said Sell. "But I want to ask you something. What is the exact meaning of that word 'dastardly'?"

Thomas drew himself up. "I'll have to refer you to the dictionary," he said.

Merry-Go-Round.

Someone remarked to "Cotton Ed" Smith, unreconstructed senator from South Carolina, that Roosevelt was his own worst enemy. "Not while I'm living," replied Cotton Ed. . . . J. Edgar Hoover's G-men have been worked almost to death with espionage and fifth column cases, plus normal activities.

Man About Manhattan

—By GEORGE TUCKER

SAN JUAN, P. R.—Our host last night was an unbelievable character out of Cervantes. After dinner he dragged out a guitar and, to the wail of plaintive melodies, sang Spanish ballads and also American mountaineer and low-down river music, sometimes in Spanish, sometimes in "mountaineer." Frankie and Johnnie with a Spanish twist is something to hear.

Before dinner we were driving down one of San Juan's narrow streets and suddenly he jammed on the brakes to keep from running over a goat that was having a late afternoon siesta, and also to hail an amigo of his who was a good half block away. He hailed him in Spanish. The amigo hailed him right back, and for five or six minutes they maintained this friendly exchange of greetings at the top of their lungs. Eventually the amigo sauntered down to the car and warmly shook hands. Then we all said "Adios" (I am catching on fast, eh?) and went our ways.

THE name of my friend, who is more Spanish than the Spaniards and who is known and liked by even the goats and the dogs in the San Juan streets, is Abraham Feldstein, of New York. To everybody in San Juan except M. Christian Belle, the French consul (who calls him Ah-bey), he is Abe.

Abe has been in Puerto Rico four years and he says he will never leave until he dies of pure senility. He speaks Spanish almost exclusively, and perfectly. He and his 11 year old daughter, Sheila, even converse at the dinner table or over the telephone in Spanish, a fact that sometimes moves his wife, Ruth, to inquire, "Abe, why don't you take a day off sometime and rediscover the English language.

When Abe takes a notion to do anything—he does it. Shooting, for instance. He likes firearms, and as a result one room in his home has been turned into an arsenal. He has I don't know how many revolvers, different calibres. He has specially made heavy rifles for target shooting, and lighter ones specially made for his daughter, who likes to shoot too. He has shotguns for skeet shooting, which you can do in San Juan, and also other guns for dove shooting, which you do on the other side of the island.

ONE day last year Abe got the idea that he would like to learn to fly. On the day I arrived in San Juan he received his pilot's license. That afternoon he suggested that we go up and look at the island from the air. It was a good idea all right, but I declined. Abe is very broad minded. His feelings weren't in the least hurt. That afternoon he went back over to the training field and began working out on double and triple engined craft. "I'm going to be a transport pilot before I'm through," he swore—in Spanish, I believe him.

Through Abe I have met and been accepted on equal terms by beggars, restaurant keepers, government officials, and the constabulary. It was he who took me to the services in the Church of San Jose, where men have worshipped for 400 years, and it was he who took me into half the honky-tonks of San Juan, where even the boys in the orchestras knew him.

To San Juan, like the late Will Rogers to Claremore, Okla., it seems to me that Abe is indispensable. It wouldn't surprise me in the least to come back here some day and find myself walking down a street called Calle Feldstein.

A Farmer's Diary

Growing Into Money

—By CALVIN A. BYERS

LAST SPRING my neighbor had a Poland China sow that farrowed 10 fine thrifty spotted pigs. As I went by two days later, he called me in to see them. As he poured a pail of meal mixed with milk into the trough I heard lusty grunting from the lean-to shelter and rustling of straw. Then the mother and her pink-nosed litter came out. While the mother ate, the youngsters ran about, played and pushed each other with their noses.

"I see every little one has a curl in its ratty tail," I remarked, "and by your feeding methods I'll bet they'll have an extra one by fall."

"They're the finest litter I've ever owned," said he. "I believe in seven months I can make 'em weigh a ton."

We walked beyond the barn and looking east, I saw long green thrifty corn rows wet with dew.

"I planted it two weeks ago," he said. "These heavy rains are pushing it right along. If it keeps on raining the weeds'll swamp it - but I don't remember of it keepin' up all summer."

His clover field across the road, even high upon the hillside, was tall with early bloom; in the lower ground small sections had already lodged because it grew too rank. The timothy beyond was ready to shoot its heads. A bordering wheat field showed heavy growth and one single stalk stooled out to make three or four which almost equaled in height the parent plant.

His level spacious pasture grew rich soft folds of heavy blue grass where more than a dozen cattle were six young calves ranging from one day to six weeks old.

"It appears to me," I said, "that a farmer has more hope and faith in the work he does, than any other class of folks. While you slept last night your wheat and corn, your hay and hogs were growing into money. Your thrifty pigs and calves and chickens were not standing still. Each morning you fill your pails with milk and at night you fill them again. You're thrifty and your farm nearly always has something ready for market."

"You almost make me proud of bein' a farmer," he observed grinning, "but it isn't quite so simple as it looks to the one on the other side o' my fences."

Army and Navy Prepare Early Start on Defense Bases

BERMUDA AND NEWFOUNDLAND PLANS READY

President In Position to Use $200,000,00 Fund To Begin Work.

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON — The army and navy are shielding their intentions with wartime secrecy, but dirt may fly shortly on the first of eight new naval and air bases in the Atlntic acquired from Great Britain.

Recommendations of a joint army-navy survey board of experts for the development of the two northernmost points on the new outer line of defense already are in President Roosevelt's hands and reports on the rest are expected to be complete within a month.

In the meantime the chief executive is in a position to save time by using his $200,000,000 discretionary defense fund to start work on the Bermuda and Newfoundland bases without awaiting detailed plans for the other sites yet to be surveyed.

Even before any actual improvements are undertaken, however, naval authorities said that planes and ships of the neutrality patrol could make some use of the North Atlntic Caribbean and South American bases as soon as the exact limits were fixed.

Just what air fields, channels, docks and fortifications are contemplated will remain secret indefinitely, by present indications.

Recommendations on the Newfoundland base went to the White House Wednesday. Earlier a report was submitted on Bermuda, first of the new base sites to be examined after the historic exchange of 50 destroyers for 99-year leases was announced Sept. 3.

High defense authorities have hinted guardedly that the intention is to anchor the long outpost line securely by strong fortifications at either end, with the aim of assuring that the Caribbean will become and remain an "American lake."

Give First Aid Instructions to CCC Members

First aid instructors of Richland County Red Cross were called upon for an "emergency task" today when the colored CCC camp east of the city received instructions from the government to immediately take first aid training.

There are 207 men at the camp who are to be trained at the same time, according to Harold Mansfield, first aid director. These will be divided into two classes three nights a week, making six classes of 33 men each week. A first course requires 14 weeks of classes.

CCC men said they had received governmental orders to have every man in camp trained in Red Cross first aid, and that as the personnel is constantly changing there would be need for continuous classes.

With the usual number of classes already under way, Mansfield said his staff of instructors would be taxed to capacity for the remainder of the year. He and Loyal Hartman, who has been instructing a volunteer class at the CCC camp, will confer with CCC officers Monday on a schedule for the classes.

Threat to Greece Renewed By Story Of Assassination

TIRANA, Albania (AP) — Anti-Greek agitation was renewed suddenly today in this Italian protectorate with the leading newspaper Tomori, blaming Greece for the murder of three Albanians.

According to Tomori one of the murdered Albanians was Mrs. Demal Hoggia, niece of Dalc Hoggia, Albanian nationalist who was murdered in August, according to Italians and Albanians by Greeks.

"She died fighting, wielding a hatchet in true Hoggia style against her assailants until she was overpowered," Tomori said.

The murder was said to have occurred in the village of Kamenica on the Ciamuria pen[illegible] on the Greek-Albanian border. Albania, backed by Italy, wants Ciamuria, now Greek but once Albanian, returned.

At the time of the Dalc Hoggia slaying, the Italian [illegible] press charged that British agents in Greece had planned it and that the Greeks had been "[illegible] tools."

LEGION WIDOW

BOSTON —(AP)— "I expect to be a Legion widow for the next year," Mrs. Milo J. Warren of Toledo, O., commented yesterday on the election of her husband as national commander. His duties will take him to 50-odd departments, including Hawaii, Canada and the Panama Canal Zone.

BOOK SPEAKER

Atty. Leslie K. Wagner, Democratic candidate for state representative from Richland county, will speak at a meeting of the Richland County Association of Old Age Pensioners at 2 p. m. Saturday in the common pleas courtroom at the courthouse.

The meeting, one of a number the association plans to hold before the November election, will be open to the public.

Organized recently, the county association is seeking higher pensions, prompter payment, and election of pension officials only by pensioners.

BETTMAN AND BENDER BOOKED

Republicans Map Program For Rally Tuesday Night at Headquarters.

Gilbert Bettman, candidate for the Ohio supreme court, and George H. Bender, seeking re-election as congressman-at-large on the Republican ticket, will be principal speakers Tuesday night at the first big Republican rally of the campaign in Richland county, party leaders said today.

The rally, sponsored by the Willkie-Bricker-Burton club, will get under way at 7:30 p. m. in Republican headquarters on North Main street. Bettman, a former state attorney general, will speak in Mansfield after addressing a rally at Shelby the same night.

Gov. John W. Bricker and other state candidates are scheduled to speak at a rally here Oct. 11 and Wendell Willkie, presidential candidate, later in the month.

County Republican executive and central committeemen will meet at 7:30 p. m. today at party headquarters in an organization session. Campaign procedure and plans for other county rallies will be outlined.

The Richland County War Veterans Republican club will hold a rally Saturday afternoon and evening at R. B. Gardner's farm northeast of Mansfield. Judge Charles W. Montgomery of the Fifth district appeals court is expected to speak.

PASTOR SPEAKS

Rev. Grover E. Swoyer of First Lutheran church gave an informal talk before the members of the Phalanx club last night when the group met for its regular meeting at the Y. M. C. A.

Rev. Swoyer related his experiences while with national guardsmen at Sparta, Wis., for the recent war maneuvers.

ACTS TO BUY MILE OF PIPE

City to Receive Bids on New Water Improvement Project, Extending Mains.

Preparations were made today by city officials for the purchase of more than a mile of pipe for the construction of a new water line, an extension of a high capacity main to the mercantile district.

Service-Safety Director C. M. Crafton said today that sealed proposals on the materials would be received at the office of the secretary of the board of control until noon Monday, Oct. 14.

Specifications call for delivery of 4,030 feet of 16-inch cast iron pipe, 2,000 feet of 10-inch pipe; six tons of various size fittings and numerous valves.

Construction of the new main is expected to get under way within the next month. The project estimated to cost $68,000 will employ more than 70 WPA workers for a two month period.

The project includes the extension of a high capacity main from Lexington and Blanche street, over South Mulberry, Glessner avenue and Weldon avenue to West Dickson avenue where it will connect to a new main laid on West Fourth street.

Approved by the state department of health and the National Board of Fire Underwriters, it is part of water development plans recommended three years ago by consulting engineers to bolster Mansfield's fire protection.

P. T. A. AT APPLESEED JUNIOR HIGH PROTESTS LUNCH STAND

Meeting for the first time this school term, the Johnny Appleseed Parent-Teacher association last night passed a resolution opposing the building of a lunch stand on Cline avenue just east of the Johnny Appleseed junior high school on the grounds that the proposed structure would damage "the aesthetic beauty of the school, the yards, and the values of the properties nearby."

The resolution, copies of which will be sent to Mayor William J. Locke and the person who plans to build the lunch stand, "protests the position the builder will place the building on the lot in regard to the front of adjacent buildings on Cline avenue."

The resolution was signed by E. S. Wendell, president of the P. T. A., and Mrs. George Loesch, secretary.

Plans for a membership drive were set up last night's meeting and members of the organization were divided into three teams to conduct the campaign for new members. Mrs. S. G. Bushman is chairman of the membership committee.

Mrs. George Berg and Mrs. Bushman were chosen delegates to represent the association at the national P. T. A. convention.

GET PEN TERMS

O. S. R. Inmates Sentenced By Holmes County Night Court.

Pleading guilty to indictments charging breaking and entering and auto theft, four Ohio State reformatory inmates who went over the wall a month ago were sentenced to the Ohio penitentiary last night by Common Pleas Judge R. B. Putman of Holmes county.

In a special night session the court sentenced Ernest Hartman, 21, and Walter Splitt, 19, both of Summit county, to consecutive terms of one to 15 years on the burglary charge and one to 20 years for auto theft.

Frank Smetkowski, 21, of Cleveland, was sentenced to serve concurrently one to 15 years for breaking and entering and one to 20 years for auto theft.

Arthur Steen, 19, of Wayne county, was sentenced one to 15 years on two counts of breaking and entering.

He was indicted with the other three for burglarizing the Sunshine feed store at Millersburg and the LeRoy Miller filling station at Holmesville.

DRIVE PLANNED

The annual Y. M. C. A. Enrollment week will get underway Oct. 14 and continue through the following week, the Y. M. C. A. membership committee decided at a meeting last night.

Organization for the campaign and the selection of a chairman will be the principal business of the committee next week, R. B. Chapman, Y. M. C. A. secretary, said.

WILLKIE TOUR OF WEST ENDS IN WISCONSIN

Heads For New York After Address at Madison This Evening.

(By United Press)

ABOARD WILLKIE TRAIN EN ROUTE TO MADISON, Wis. —Republican presidential nominee Wendell L. Willkie crossed the prairies of Iowa, Illinois and Wisconsin today, testing farmer reaction to his agricultural program.

His initial western tour of more than 7,200 miles ends tonight with a speech at Madison, Wis. His special train then heads east, via Chicago, to New York for an address before the New York state Republican convention at White Plains tomorrow night.

In his first agricultural address, at Omaha, Nebr., last night, Willkie revealed that he had adopted most of the present New Deal farm policies. He promised industrial recovery which would increase agricultural prices.

For farm and business recovery, Willkie declared, it was necessary for "farm, factory, labor and consumer to tackle the job, at long last, of ending economic stagnation and preventing a common disaster." He promised to call a national economic conference, if elected.

He pledged to continue and improve the soil conservation program; to continue commodity loans; to enlarge the present rural electrification system, to develop an adequate farm credit system with low interest rates, administered independent of politics or regular government departments; to give "special treatment" to exportable surpluses—such as wheat and cotton.

"This is the last untouched land of freedom," he said. "I say it to you calmly, I say it to you deliberately, and not in the heat of political campaign, that if we continue to go down the road of enormous fiscal deficits, of long-continued depression and if we also adopt the fantastic notion of the indispensable man, this great democracy of ours, in such event, will pass."

He denounced the administration for "concentrating almost exclusively on farm production problems, instead of working on means of expanding domestic and foreign markets."

He urged that the farm program be administered to "favor the family-type farm," that regulations be simplified, that more authority be given to local groups, that administrative costs be slashed by elimination of "unnecessary employes."

CLOSE SERIES

CRESTLINE—The Pennsylvania Railroad Women's Aid closed their series of outdoor meetings with a meeting at Kelly park Wednesday evening.

HAVE COMPANY

Ohio Guardsmen Meet Boys From 10 States at Camp.

WASHINGTON — (AP) — Ohio's 8,500 national guardsmen will have plenty of company at Camp Shelby, Miss., during their year's training, the war department disclosed today.

Altogether, 2,168 officers and 42,235 enlisted men from ten states were assigned to the tent camp. Ohio's 37th division has been ordered for duty Oct. 15. Some of the units assigned to Camp Shelby have not yet been called.

QUITS AS GIRL SCOUT LEADER

Mrs. Roger A. Black, Organizer of Movement Here, Made Honorary Commissioner.

Mrs. Roger A. Black, one of the organizers of Girl Scouts in Mansfield, and first commissioner of the Mansfield Council of Girl Scouts, resigned yesterday at the first council meeting of the new year.

Mrs. Black was made honorary commissioner and will remain on the council. A nominating committee, made up of Mrs. C. H. Henkel, Miss Katharine Hartman and Mrs. A. W. Meihack, was named to select a candidate for successor to Mrs. Black. They will report at the next council meeting.

Plans were discussed for sending several members of the council to Dayton next month to attend the regional conference for Girl Scout leaders and council members. The conference will be held Oct. 14, 15 and 16, and embraces councils from Ohio, Kentucky and West Virginia.

Two members of the Mansfield council are on the conference program. Miss Eleanor Bond, executive secretary, will head a group discussion on "Organization" and also talk in a business session for troop committee members and troop leaders. Mrs. John W. Graham will head a group discussion of "Financing and Preparing A Budget."

Mrs. Herbert Hoover, wife of the former president, and honorary vice president of the Girl Scouts of America, will be a speaker at the conference.

Brazil has issued a series of 24 stamps depicting events in its history.

CITY EMPLOYES CAST VOTES ON BOARD MEMBER

Select Representatives For Ohio Retirement Fund Administration.

One hundred and fifteen city employes among the several thousand municipal employes in the state belonging to the Public Employes Retirement system will ballot within the next 10 days for a member to represent them on the Public Employes Retirement board in Columbus.

A ticket bearing the names of four candidates for the two-year term beginning Jan. 1, 1941, will be distributed to Mansfield employes Tuesday and Wednesday.

They must be returned by mail to the retirement board on or before midnight Oct. 7

Candidates on the ballot include Lewis W. Erhart, Dayton; W. M. Kimpel, Cleveland heights; E. V. Williams, Cleveland and William J Maloney, Cleveland, present city representative and chairman of the board of directors.

Similar elections are also being held among county and state employes to select representatives from their respective groups for representation on the board.

PICK COUNCIL

BUCKET BRIGADE

BUTTE, Mont —(U.P.)—Montana school of mines students employed a modern twist to eliminate the traditional back-breaking bucket brigade during the annual whitewashing of their huge "M" near the apex of Big Butte. The "M" was whitewashed with the aid of a pumper fire truck.

Farewell For a Year --- Mothers Bid Guardsmen Goodby

Tearful farewells are said by mothers and sweethearts as national guardsmen leave for their camps where they will receive a year's army training. At left, two-year-old Michael McGowan, snug in the arms of his mother, Mrs. Christian McGowan, of New York, appears to be waving goodby to departing troops of the 71st regiment. At right, Mrs. Anthony Werner, of Reading, Pa., weeps as she says goodbye to her guardsmen sons, Stewart, 21, left, and Richard, 18, both buglers in Battery G, 213th coast artillery.

LURE OF CITY FOR FARM BOYS STEADILY FADES, TEACHER SAYS

FORT ATKINSON, Wis —(U.P.)— The lure of city jobs is losing its power steadily among farm youth, believes Norman Ackley, vocational agriculture instructor.

Ackley bases his opinion on 23 years' experience with the Wisconsin state fair and on his work at the high school here. He declares the spread of vocational agriculture courses is dignifying farming as a profession in the estimation of thousands of rural youths who are learning ways to win security from the soil.

A future industrial boom will attract far fewer farm boys than did previous prosperity eras, Ackley believes.

"You'll not catch them going into factories to stand there hour after hour stepping on a treadle," he said. "It isn't that they look down on factory work; it is that they have learned to look up to farm work."

Vast Change Noted.

Ackley said a vast change has come over farm youth in the past generation.

"When I started teaching farming there were just five schools in the state doing it," he recalled "Now there are 203. The student gets farm crops his first year, animal husbandry his second, farm mechanics his third and farm management his fourth, in addition to algebra, English and cultural subjects under a program developed by L. M Susman, state supervisor of vocational agriculture.

"While going to school, the student carries out projects at his farm home. He raises hogs, poultry or calves. He learns to treat seed. He tests his father's cattle in the school laboratory.

"All that has created the feeling among these students that farming is a profession. They learn that farming is not haphazard, that it requires as much intelligence as banking."

Community Interest

The "aggie" student, Ackley said, becomes community and is stimulated by the activities of others.

The Future Farmers, a national organization of high school vocational agriculture students, he maintains, is a great boys' swaps ideas, is goaded by what other lads are achieving. He gets a broader vision of community cooperation."

And results? As an example, Ackley cited one of "his boys," now 26, who is operating a 200-acre farm and "doing better than his neighbors." He is on the district school board and this year exhibited a new combine at the state fair.

OFFICERS NAMED

ASHLAND—Wilma Ritter was named as secretary of Troop 2 of the Girl Scouts here, at a wiener roast held at the Boy Scout cabin. Other officers named at the meeting included Joyce Stockdale, treasurer, Portia Lehman, associate treasurer, and Emily Overreynder, troop reporter.

RELIEF CORPS TO SELL TAGS

Help Raise Funds Saturday For Civil War Memorial at State Capital.

A "Tag Day" campaign to help raise funds for the erection of a Civil War soldier memorial on the grounds of the state capitol in Columbus will be staged in the city Saturday, Oct. 26, by the McLaughlin Women's Relief corps, Mrs. C. A. Edmonstone, president, announced today.

The campaign is a part of a state-wide drive by various chapters of the women's relief corps, with the money going into a fund for the erection of a monument depicting a Civil War veteran.

Oct. 26 will be known throughout the state as "Women's Relief Corps 'Civil War Soldier Memorial' Day" and will precede National Americanization day on Oct. 27, Mrs. Edmonstone said.

The group had originally planned to ask for an appropriation from the state legislature for the funds, but it was felt that the organization should not ask for the appropriation because of present conditions.

The campaign will be conducted along the same lines as "Poppy Day". Funds will be solicited on the streets and each contributor will be given a miniature American flag or red-white-and-blue bow to wear in his lapel.

FIRES JAIL IN VAIN

DECATUR, Ind. —(U.P.)— An attempted prison-break at the Adams county jail here by setting fire to the building failed when the smoke aroused the sheriff and members of his family. The entire population of the prison was in on the plan. He was Hiram McCollum, only inmate.

The daughter of Mr and Mrs Clarence Wolf, she is majoring in home economics at the school and plans to be a dietitian . . . Another Mansfielder who will be some distance away is David Templeton, son of Mr and Mrs Daniel Templeton . . . He left this week to enter Dartmouth as a freshman.

HAIL OHIO: Quite a few of the freshmen at Ohio State university this year will be from our town . . . Those who left for Columbus about the middle of the week are Josephine Hughes, whose mother is Mrs George Hughes Marge Boals, daughter of Mr and Mrs F David Boals; Robert Boals, who is the son of Mr and Mrs B B Boals, and William Harmony, whose parents are Mr and Mrs George W. Harmony

Three Mansfield students, who are enrolled as freshmen at Denison university, have been pledged by social fraternities on the Granville campus. . . . John F. Hughes (son of Mr. and Mrs Frank J. Hughes) is a pledge of Kappa Sigma fraternity, while Robert Tawse (whose parents are Mr. and Mrs. William W. Tawse) and Don A. Finefrock (son of Mr. and Mrs J. H. Finefrock) are pledges of Phi Gamma Delta fraternity. . . . And speaking of Phi Gamma Delta, Fred Lavender was pledged to that fraternity at Adelbert college (undergraduate school for men of Western Reserve university in Cleveland) where he is a freshman this year. The son of Dr. and Mrs. D. C. Lavender, he is taking a pre-medical course.

ALL of their Mansfield friends will be pleased to know that Mr and Mrs Don Matthews are the parents of a baby daughter . . . They're living in Corpus Christi Tex now you know, and the little girl was born on her mother's birthday . . . Mrs. Matthews was the former Jane Phelps, and her mother Mrs Mary B Phelps, is down in Texas visiting now . . . Probably the most thrilled of all about the new baby is the Matthew's young son, David, who's just three years old

If you're in Dayton this week-end, don't forget to stop in the Miami hotel to see the antique exposition, because a Mansfield woman, Mrs. Guy Shawk, is exhibiting some glass and china there. She went down Wednesday evening for the show, which opened yesterday, and Mr. Shawk went down today, as the expo will continue through Sunday. . . . Also out of town for the week-end are Mrs Frank Wendt and Mrs. J. W. Petree, who've gone to their former home, Chicago, Ill, to visit with friends.

* * *

AND IN CONCLUSION: Roland Miller who spent the summer here with his parents, Mr. and Mrs Rollie F Miller, is leaving tomorrow for Sarasota, Fla., where he will begin his second year of study at the Ringling Brothers School of Art . . . Two Mansfielders Richard H Land and Donald R Vangeem have been in Havana Cuba this week—going to the Latin American capital aboard the Caribbean Clipper from Miami Fla . . . Edith Fletcher Jameson has just returned from New York City where she spent ten days as the guest of Madam Thelma Votipka of the Metropolitan Opera company

ENTERTAIN CLASS.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Dillon had a meeting of the Fellowship class of the Evangelical Congregational church at their home on Louise avenue yesterday evening. Following the business Mrs. James Wynn read the devotions, and then games and contests were played. Refresnments were served at the close of the evening. The next meeting, Oct. 31, will be a masquerade party, with the place to be announced later.

Varied Methods of Memorizing

By GARRY C. MYERS, Ph. D.

Let no student in high school or college suppose he can get along without boning (committing things to memory). There are certain facts and symbols which will be needed constantly. The earlier they are memorized the better. An example is the spelling of the technical vocabulary of any course.

Parrot Chat

Many are tempted to memorize an item before they know what it means, to memorize mere words and phrases. I regret to confess that I did much of this when I was in college. In chemistry, for example, I often made perfect recitations by merely repeating what I could visualize from the pages of the text book. I could read off statements and formulae from memory as if I were reading them from the book right before my eyes. In my imagination I was doing just this. Though some can by considerable cramming before examination make good grades through this procedure, they are pretty sure to meet with trouble by and by. It is a wasteful way. I know, for although I always got an "A" in college chemistry, I really learned very little of it.

Now let me entreat the young student that, except for a few symbols, he make it a rule to get the meaning of every item before learning it by heart. In many instances this will consist of turning the paragraph of the test book into a sentence or two of your own words. Then the memorizing of these ideas is relatively easy.

On the other hand, some students are content with figuring out the meaning. They don't bother about committing these ideas or items to memory. They trust to incidental memory. They neglect a step in study at which they could, through a little systematic effort and self-discipline, get greatest dividends from small investment of effort. As a rule, what is worth figuring out, is worth remembering. Some practice at boning is good practice for the student.

By the way, some high school and college students, required to memorize a poem, have observed that although they were confused and unsuccessful in mastering the poem the last thing at night, they might, while dressing the next morning, recall the poem perfectly without seeing it at all in the meanwhile.

An aunt of mine once told me that while teaching school years ago she would sometimes labor in vain over a mental arithmetic problem. Giving it up at night, she would put the book under her pillow and on waking in the morning, usually solve the problem with ease.

Marriage Meddlers

Continuation of "Married Comrades"

"Madge! Madge!"

"What is it, Ede?" I answered, as I would have spoken to a pleading child.

"I—I didn't ask Dicky anything while he was carrying me down," she said with a meekness so utterly foreign to her that it grated my nerves. "I thought you wouldn't like me to. But—do you think he will talk to me when he gets through with that work your father wants?"

"I am sure he will." I said with an assurance I was far from feeling myself.

"There's something else," she went on haltingly. "I want to talk to him alone for a little while, tell him some things he must know before I—"

She broke off abruptly while her tortured eyes roamed over the room. Then they came back to search mine.

"Then," she went on. "I want to talk to you both together. Will you come when I send for you?"

I could not understand what had happened to her. When I last had seen her, there had been something in our colloquy and in the unspoken understanding behind it which had made me believe that she had set her faltering footsteps upon the beginning of a path which might lead her to a belated happiness. There had been nothing of the despair which so patently was now her portion.

"Why won't you say you'll come and talk to me, Madge? I thought you didn't hate me any more."

"I never hated you, Ede," I protested quickly, "and of course I'll come to you whenever you send for me, provided I am not doing something for my father. If I am, I will come the minute the task is over."

"I'm—so glad—" she said faintly, and closing her eyes slumped back against her pillows. Miss Whitlock was at her side in an instant and put practiced fingers on her pulse, while she watched her breathing closely. After a second she spoke to me, standing rigid with alarm beside her.

"She's all right," she said "But you'd better go away now. I want her to rest. Has the luggage come down?"

"It's right outside the door," I told her. "I'll just set the door ajar, and bring it all in."

"It won't be too heavy for you?" the nurse asked solicitously.

"Indeed, no," I returned. "And I won't be a minute getting it in."

I was almost as good as my word, and when, with a last assurance from the nurse that she lacked for nothing, I closed the door behind me, I felt that at least I had done everything humanly possible for Edith's welfare.

Katherine and Lillian must have heard the study door close, for when I turned toward the library door, I saw that it was open a crack, and though I could not see them I knew that they must be behind it.

As I put my hand upon the knob, it opened wide and Katherine and Lillian emerged from behind it. Lillian closed it quickly again, and then they faced me with a swift questioning.

"How is she? Did she try any stunts with you or Dicky? Do you think she really is planning to kill herself?"

"She terrifies me," I said quickly, and then gave them an account of what Edith had said, and the way she had looked.

"Not so good," Lillian commented when I had finished, and Katherine nodded a grave assent.

"But," Lillian went on briskly, "there's nothing we can do about it, so suppose we all go up to your room, Madge, and make ready for the great Philip Vertizen."

HORO*COPE

Friday, September 27.

Swift-moving events of a drastic as well as problematical and perplexing nature are read from the lunar as well as mutual aspects. Sudden, decisive and forceful action may be looked for with many factors of defeat to be manipulated with resolution, determination and with the co-operation of involved groups—labor, political educational or humanitarian.

Those whose birthday it is may find themselves beset by a year in which some frustrating or delaying influence must be met with rigorous or drastic action. There may be several fronts to combat and vanquish with determination, especially involving group action or large bodies of a political, humane, social, or even mystical nature.

A child born on this day may be steady, persistent, dependable and aspiring, although it may have subtle, compassionate and humanitarian traits outstanding. It may have several unusual talents seeking artistic expression.

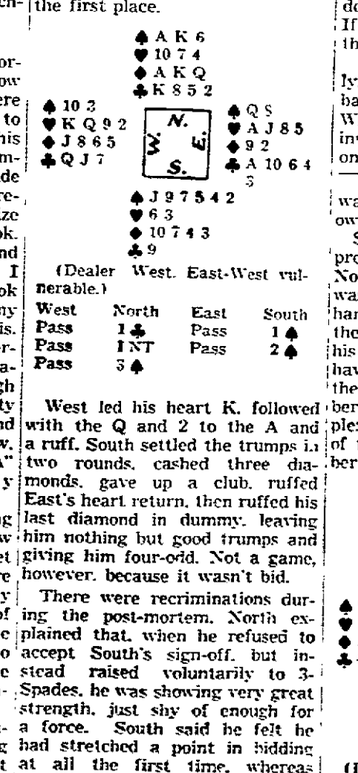
"The Authority on Authorities"

NOT QUITE A FORCE.

If you have tried to sign off the bidding by making a second bid of the suit with which you first responded, but your partner, instead of passing, sees fit to raise you, he is showing quite a hand. All that you need then, in order to go the next step, into game, if the suit is a major, is any element of strength of any kind beyond what you showed in the first place.



(Dealer West. East-West vulnerable.)

West	North	East	South
Pass	1 ♣	Pass	1 ♠
Pass	1 NT	Pass	2 ♠
Pass	3 ♠

West led his heart K. followed with the Q and 2 to the A and a ruff. South settled the trumps in two rounds, cashed three diamonds, gave up a club, ruffed East's heart return, then ruffed his last diamond in dummy, leaving him nothing but good trumps and giving him four-odd. Not a game, however, because it wasn't bid.

There were recriminations during the post-mortem. North explained that, when he refused to accept South's sign-off, but instead raised voluntarily to 3-Spades, he was showing very great strength, just shy of enough for a force. South said he felt he had stretched a point in bidding at all the first time, whereas he really had made a very fine expert bid. His rebid was, of course, a forced proposition, to which he was virtually committed by his own first bid.

South's hand really became pretty good when North raised. Now all he had to think about was the playing strength of the hand at spades, without regard to the defensive or general value of his holding. In duplicate he might have been pardoned for passing the 3-Spades, but most fine rubber players, with winning complexes, would have gone the rest of the way when engaged in rubber competition.

46 Survivors of Refugee Ship Rescued After 8 Days

SIX CHILDREN, ONE WOMAN IN OPEN LIFEBOAT

Starved and Frozen Band Sighted by British Flying Boat.

(By United Press)

A BRITISH AIRPORT—Thirty-nine men, one woman and six children, mourned as dead all week, returned alive today from refugee ship City of Benares, which was torpedoed without warning in mid-Atlantic during a storm on the night of Sept. 17.

They had spent eight days and nights in an open lifeboat without hope of rescue.

A British long-range patrol flying boat found them 600 miles at sea. Their food and water were gone and they were so starved and cold not one could stand on his feet when the dot on the far horizon, first sighted by 13-year-old Kenneth Sparks, signaled approaching rescue.

Then, the boy said, they all started praying: "Please, God, make the plane bring us help."

When they came ashore this morning, 20 lascars of the City of Benares crew had to be carried on stretchers. Their feet were frozen.

Kenneth reckoned the days by the sardines, ship's biscuits and quarter glasses of water dispensed on the first six days, supplemented by a few swallows of canned milk which "thickened our saliva and made us thirstier," and, the last two days, by the few drops of juice from a tin of peaches, rationed after the water was gone.

The only woman in the little boat was Mary Cornish, 21, a teacher who spent most of the time massaging the children's limbs, making up exercises for them to counteract the cramping and cold, leading them in songs and telling stories including, she said, "A Serial—Bulldog Drummond—My Own Version."

Alfred Capel, 12, remembered best the great waves which several times "had the boat practically upside down." But every time he got frightened, he said, he saw the brass buttons of the uniform of an officer aboard, "and then I felt all right."

The officer was Ronald Cooper of Dundee, Scotland, who stayed at the tiller day and night. Another survivor was Bohdan Nagorski, Polish shipping magnate, who disclosed that for two days they had rowed continually, until they found a sail stowed away in the boat. On the sixth day a steamer passed nearby but did not see them. Kenneth said the steamer "stopped, searched us with a glass then went off as fast as it could, leaving us in the lurch." The others said he was mistaken.

Rev. E. M. Sullivan, a priest who had been serving as escort to the children aboard the Canada-bound City of Benares, led the prayers.

Finding of the 46 survivors reduced the ship's casualty list to 247 of the 406 who had been aboard.

German Fugitive Pleads to Remain In United States

PITTSBURGH —(U.P.)— The story of Andy Pallo that he was in a German concentration camp, then came back to this country on the S. S. American Legion after having been deported in 1937, was investigated today by federal immigration authorities.

Pallo, who has returned to his former home of Weirton, W. Va., appeared at the immigration office here to tell his story, apparently, agents said, in an effort to gain leniency. He was not taken into custody while authorities checked records in the Detroit immigration office.

"It will be murder if I'm sent back now," Pallo said, hoping that he will be permitted to remain in America as a "political refugee." He first entered this country from Czecho-Slovakia in 1926 and worked in Weirton for ten years before he fled to Detroit when immigration authorities checked his entry.

These street fair men have a lingo all their own, which is incomprehensible to the average person as Chinese is to an American. One of them came into George Satterlee's place the first of the week to get some information from the street fair committee chairman. "What's the nut on a 20 foot slug joint with the X on it?" Satterlee looked bewildered and said "No speakee." The man grinned and explained: "That means 'What's the price on a 20 foot nickel concession, with exclusive rights?' " Very simple once you've learned the language.

There's an old maxim about being as old as you feel, but Arthur S. Beck, deputy county auditor, wonders if there's one that will help him find out just how old he is. The other day, Beck went to the county birth records, which are supposed to be authentic, and learned that he is one year older than he thinks he is. It's very confusing, he admits, and now he's wondering if his memory is slipping, or someone made a mistake when his birth was entered in the records.

The Brownie troops of Girl Scouts—the very small girls—will take no back seat on the war relief sewing project which Mansfield Girl Scouts will do for the Red Cross. They are too small to run sewing machines so they've made bargains with their mothers. They will take their mothers to the sewing center and when they have them all busy making skirts for girls, the Brownies will return home and do the housework and get dinner. The bargain will give mothers a chance to see what their Brownies learn in their Girl Scout cooking classes.

Police department crackshots always shattering records recently, had a new mark to shoot at today. Not to be outdone by fellow officers Patrolman C. W. Kyler fired 50 shots from his service revolver at the targets on the Ontario range yesterday and chalked up the best score ever turned in on the 60-yard course. It was a 98, topping by nearly a full point Police Chief Meade K. Bates, Lieut. Paul Whipp and Patrolman Paul J. Martin, who have scores of 97.2.

ILL TWO YEARS

Mrs. Adora Nussbaum Lived In Bucyrus for 50 Years.

BUCYRUS—A resident of Bucyrus for more than 50 years, Mrs. Adora Nussbaum, 78, of 415 Warren street, died at City hospital today after an illness of two years.

Born in Cleveland June 24, 1862, she was the daughter of Rabbi J. M. Cohen. Her husband, Joseph Nussbaum, preceded her in death 25 years ago.

She is urvived by two sisters, Mrs. I. Nussbaum, with whom she made her home for the past eight years, and Mrs. Hattie Frank, Detroit.

Funeral services will be held Sunday at 2 p. m. at the Woodlawn cemetery chapel, Toledo. Burial will be in Woodlawn cemetery.

EXPECT TO LIST 1,000 ALIENS

Postal Officials Predict Registration in City Will Reach One in 36.

Registration of nearly 1,000 aliens in the Mansfield area before the closing date of registration, Dec. 26, was predicted by postoffice officials here today.

To date, 548 aliens of this vicinity have been registered and fingerprinted at the postoffice, a check-up of registration figures at the postoffice revealed.

Postal officials also stated that nearly 1,000 application blanks for registration had been given out at the postoffice since registration began Aug. 27.

"If the 1,000 mark is reached, it will place the ratio of aliens in this vicinity at one for every 36 people," Assistant Postmaster W. T. Houston pointed out.

Before registration is complete for this vicinity, aliens at the Ohio State Reformatory and other institutions in this district must be registered by the postoffice, Houston said.

FOUND SHOT TO DEATH IN HOME

Loudonville Man Had Been In Ill Health, Coroner Told.

LOUDONVILLE — Dr. George Emery, Ashland county coroner, returned a verdict of suicide today in the death of Thomas C. Allerding, 56, who was found shot to death by his daughter, Mrs. Mary Deloris Henry, who had heard a shot fired in the basement of their home.

Mr. Allerding, a lifelong resident of Loudonville, had been in ill health.

He is survived by two daughters, Mrs. Henry, and Miss Irene Allerding of Toledo; three sisters, Mrs. Helen Powell of Loudonville; Mrs. Anna Arnold of Shelby; and Mrs. Celia Weisen of Battle Creek, Mich.

Funeral services will be held at St. Peter's church here at 10 a. m. Monday with burial in the church cemetery.

STRIKE ENDED

400 Return To Work As AFL Reaches Agreement.

CLEVELAND —(AP)— Approximately 400 employes will return to work Monday at the Eberhard Manufacturing Co. plant, where a strike of the AFL machinists union tied up production seven weeks.

A skeleton force went back to their jobs today under a settlement calling for management-union board to arbitrate the cases of workmen discharged because they are more than 65 years of age. Those discharged will be among the 400 going back on duty.

ILLNESS FATAL

BUCYRUS—A resident of the Crawford county infirmary since last February, Jack Harris, 76, died there yesterday after a brief illness. He has no known relatives.

Funeral services will be held at 1 p. m. Saturday at the Henderson and Lutz Funeral home.

AIR RAID PRECAUTIONS LISTED FOR PLANTS MAKING MUNITIONS

WASHINGTON—(AP)—Air raid precaution suggestions—four pages of them—went out from the war department today to firms expanding their plants for defense orders.

The suggestions dealt with the proper locations of factories, their protection and concealment against bombing attacks, and included an offer of plans for air raid shelters.

At the same time, the department disclosed that it was contemplating proposals for underground airplane hangars and storage dumps for ammunition and vital supplies, such as aviation gasoline.

Taking account of the wholesale destruction of industry in Spain, Poland, Finland, Holland and now England, the department sent American manufacturers a memorandum outlining "minimum passive defense protection."

Complete protection against direct bomb hits was not judged to be "economically or militarily justifiable at this time," but measures for "reasonable protection" were outlined.

The army memorandum recommended that:

1—Plants be located to take advantage of protective terrain;

2—Buildings be dispersed,

3—Blackout provisions be made;

4—Protection be provided against bomb splinters, fire and damage to power, telephone light and gas lines, and

5—That buildings be concealed as much as possible.

Secretary Stimson said those precautions, as a result of the threat of modern long-range bombing, had been added to previous strategic principles dictating the location of munitions plants in the interior, behind mountain ranges.

CONTRACTS LET

State Awards Road Projects In Richland, Ashland, Knox.

Two state highway contracts for a total of $51,351 for projects in Richland, Ashland, and Knox counties were let today by the highway department.

The Mansfield Asphalt Paving company was awarded the contract for paving a 1.6 mile section of route 42 in the city of Ashland on its low bid of $29,652. The plans call for completion of the job by Nov. 30, 1940.

Contract for resurfacing 9.8 miles of state route 95 in southern Richland county and extending through Fredericktown went to the Southern Ohio Quarries company, Columbus, for $21,699. The project is scheduled for completion by June 30, 1941.

DIES IN DENVER

John S. Brooker, Former Resident of Mansfield, Succumbs.

Word has been received here of the death on Wednesday in Denver, Col., of John S. Brooker, former Mansfield resident.

Mr. Brooker, who was about 52, left Mansfield to make his home in the west in 1918.

Surviving are a brother, Alfred H., and a sister, Jane, of Mansfield, and a brother, Robert J. of Willard.

Funeral services were held at Brighton, Col., today. The body was cremated.

Physically Fit and Immediately Available Men Placed in Preferred List.

(By International News Service)

WASHINGTON — Approximately 20 classifications will be set up to tell the 16,500,000 potential conscripts who register under the new draft law which men will be called up first and which men will be deferred from service, it was learned today.

This information was gained as Washington officials revealed that they would rely on communities of the nation to act as "watch dogs" to prevent draft-dodging.

The service classifications will be announced by national draft board officials as soon as President Roosevelt signs an executive order approving them.

While the law provides for four general classifications the general groups will be split into subgroups, so there will be a total of 20 different listings. For instance, Class 1, it was learned, will include a group immediately available for service and a group with minor physical ailments who can be called up, if necessary.

During the World war 3,630,106 men of the 23,908,000 who registered were placed in Class 1 for immediate service. About 889,000 others were placed in 1-A, or those with minor ailments who could serve if needed.

However, under the 1940 law, which provides for the training of only 900,000 men a year, it was believed that there would be enough in the first class to fill all quotas.

Meanwhile, Maj. Ben. Howell, director of the manpower division of the draft board gave assurances that the board would not conduct punitive campaigns against those who might fail to register. In 1917, general roundups were staged in at least four cities to apprehend "slackers," and a scandal resulted when some of them were mauled by police and crowds.

Howell, pointing out that it will be the job of the department of justice to detect draft-dodgers, emphasized that the selective service system would not engage in "sleuthing or police work."

However, he said that the draft board was relying on communities to become "watch-dogs." That, he added, would be the first check on persons who fail to register 19 days from now.

DIES AT AGE 36

Mrs. Walter Leicy, Crestline, Succumbs at Hospital Here.

CRESTLINE—Mrs. Ileen Mildred Leicy, 36, wife of Walter Leicy, died at Mansfield General hospital last evening of complications following birth of a baby son born Sept. 19.

Mrs. Leicy was born March 4, 1904 at Craigton, O., the daughter of John and Margaret Jenny Reed, and in 1931 she was married to Walter Leicy of this city.

She was a member of the English Lutheran church, Harmony chapter of the Order of Eastern Star, and several social groups.

Besides her husband and eight-day-old son, Walter Reed Leicy, she is survived by two sisters, Mary Margaret Reed, who resided at the Leicy home, Mrs. John Fullenlove, of Crestline, and her paternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Fremont Reed of Craigton.

The body will be at the home tomorrow. Funeral arrangements had not been completed today.

The Voice of BROADWAY

—By DOROTHY KILGALLEN

Gossip in Gotham.

Her cast-mates in "Louisiana Purchase" are rumoring that Zorina and Balanchine have chilled again—which probably only means you will find them holding hands in the Stork at 11:55 tonight. . . . Col. "The Gimp" Snyder, Ruth Etting's ex-husband, will be back on Broadway soon.

Bea Amnudon the pocket venus, is dividing her evenings between Count Haugwitz-Reventlow, Barbara Hutton's former husband, and Bob Sweeny, Barbara Huttons' former fiance.

Penny Singleton is now wearing Director Bob Sparks' sparkler. . . . Martha Raye tore several tendons in her ankle performing her pyrotechnics in the Jolson show the other evening—which is why Georgie Miller, of the chorus, was carrying her from the cabs into the swing joints.

One of the big swing bands is set for a blowup in October. The musicians are getting ready to quit their playboy bandleader en masse . . . The Arthur Bernsteins (she's Jackie Coogan's mother) have Reno in their bean-o.

William Saroyan, the Pulitzer Prizer, and Joan Castle, the actress, are in love. He calls her "my nation of loveliness" and sends her presents—tickets to his play!

Jimmy Blake (T. Dorsey's trumpeter) and Mary Ann McCall, who sings at Kelly's Stable, will waltz down the aisle in Boston in ten days. . . . Barbara Hutton is helping decorate Cary Grant's new house—in more ways than one.

Edna Sedgewick, the dancing chick of the Ed Wynn show, and Dick Purcel, the celluloid glamor boy, are dizzy. He's scheduled to fly his own plane here to see her premiere.

The Aquacade is full of romances. Bobby Holm (Eleanor's nephew) and Eileen Hart, another swimmer, are betrothed; so are Betty Wilson (who subbed for the star when she was ill) and Freddie Brent, who was Johnny Weismuller's understudy.

Muriel Cowper, one of Katie Hepburn's school chums (her daddy is an executive of the Connecticut Power Co.) and Val Arms, the artist, are sniffing orange blossoms.

Jimmy Walker's wife, pretty Betty Compton, is in business too, now—furniture. . . . That's a funny routine Roy Rogers, the cowboy star, is going through.

His press agent leads him in and out of night clubs, but doesn't let the poor fellow stay long enough to nibble a welsh rarebit or sip a champagne cocktail. As soon as his picture is taken in one cafe, the p. a. leads him out and they dash to another.

George Jessel gave Lois Andrew a new acquamarine ring as a solace for the bee-sting she got on one finger. . . . Gower and Jeanne of the Waldorf are flirting with the cinema, and vice versa. . . . When the government gets enough Martin B-26 bombers—which are capable of flying over 5,000 miles non-stop—the Boeing B-19 (the army's current top bombing plane) will probably be declared outmoded so England can purchase that type.

Carole Bruce, this season's footlight glamor girl still rides on trolley cars. . . . The song fashioners have boycotted one of the leading Tin Pan Alley publishers because he insists on rewriting everybody's lyrics.

Herb Ackerberg, vice-president of CBS, and Camille Williams, local cafe society beauty, have softening of the hearteries. . . . Tyrone Power held up traffic for ten minutes at 45th and Broadway night before last.

Princess Baba of Sarawak (who will shortly be divorced from Bob Gregory, the wrestler) is holding hands with a Spanish dancer in the London bomb shelters . . . The Jesse Livermore, jr.'s baby-talk was premature.

Waxey Gordon's wife, according to mob reports, is broke and on relief. . . . Edward G. Robinson has yen to go on the stage again after taking a bow at one of the local hits . . . Sherman Billingsley has sold his yacht, the Sea Gull.

Bette Davis' date with Bob Taplinger in the Stork club the other evening didn't look like a publicity stunt. . . . It looked as if they were both swooning! . . . There's a fight brewing in Musicians' Local 802 between Jack Rosenberg, the local president, and J. Petillo, the national head. Joe Moss, the famous Broadway nitery owner, returns to the field Oct. 3 when he impresarios the Fairway Yacht club. . . . Margie Baglin of "Hold On to Your Hats" holds the current record for Loot in the Chorus Ranks. Since the show opened, her beaux have donated a silver fox jacket, a mink coat, some diamond and ruby jewelry and a Pekingese!

MANSFIELD HIGH places a two-game winning streak on the block tonight when it faces the powerful Elyria high grid machine under the floodlights at 8 p. m. at Stadium field.

Mentor Paul Snyder's athletes will go into the game as underdogs, but the Tygers are capable of pulling an upset.

Mansfield will be handicapped as two of the varsity backfield men are on the injured and sick lists and may not see service for more than a period.

Martin Henke, hard-hitting fullback, suffered a knee injury in the Cambridge game last week and the injury has not responded to treatment.

The other regular is Adam Brandt, halfback, who is ill with a throat ailment and has not been out for practice this week.

Elyria comes here with a smooth-working outfit capable of striking from any point on the gridiron. Its passing attack is expected to cause the Tygers considerable trouble

In Al Meyer, Elyria has a great running and passing ace. The lad sparked the club to a 13 to 6 win over the Sandusky Blue Streaks last week.

Mansfield dusted off Cambridge 25 to 7, last week, but in the second half the losers' broke loose with a passing attack that worked with splendid results.

BETTY JAMESON FAVORITE IN WOMEN'S GOLF MATCH

DEL MONTE, Calif. — (NS) — National champion Betty Jameson of San Antonio today faced Clara Callender of Long Beach in the semi-finals of the Women's National Golf championship over the Pebble Beach links. Miss Jameson, by virtue of her title and past record, was the favorite.

In the second semi-final match Mrs. James Ferrie of Pasadena was pitted against fast-swinging Jane Cothran of Greenville, S C

Seats Still Available For Elyria-Tyger Game.

There are still plenty of good seats available for the Elyria-Mansfield Tyger football game at 8 p. m. today at Stadium field, Senior high officials announced today. All seats for tonight's contest are reserved. Admission price for adults is 50 cents. Tickets may be purchased in advance at Central drug, Brown's drug store, Tawse Pharmacy, Yuncker Sports and the Mansfield Athletic Supply store, or may be purchased at the Stadium field ticket offices tonight.

Tribe Faces Test

Feller May Face Rowe In Initial Game of Crucial Series.

By GAYLE TALBOT

CLEVELAND—(AP)—Though hurt and disappointed by the team bickering that probably has deprived them of their first baseball pennant in 20 years, Cleveland's fans prepared to give one final, dogged yell for their staggering Indians today.

* * *

Near 50,000 of them, faintly hoping that the miracle might yet happen, were expected to crowd into the great municipal stadium for the opening game of the "do-or-don't" series against the tearing Tigers from Detroit.

Judging from a score of scattered conversations with bewildered fans, hope almost had fled a city that was baseball wild only a few weeks ago. The customers haven't made up their minds who to blame for sure, but a majority seem inclined to side with Manager Oscar Vitt against his insurgent players.

It was plain to see that little fight was left in the locals by the way they greeted the Detroit team upon its arrival last night. Only a sprinkling of tomatoes, turnips, lemons and eggs were tossed at the station, and those with lamentable lack of control. Pete Fox was the only player pinked by a vegetable.

There even were some cheers for Schoolboy Rowe, the pitcher who had been tentatively nominated by Del Baker to try to knock the Indians completely out

Colonels In Title Playoffs

KANSAS CITY —(AP)— Those pesky Louisville Colonels, who languish through the American Association like a southern gentleman, then come to life with the cool fall breezes, are true to form in the Shaughnessy playoffs.

* * *

The Colonels had to win the final game of the season to wind up with a .500 mark, a poor fourth 19 games behind the champion Kansas City Blues. They iced a red hot second place Columbus Red Bird, four games to two, in the first round of the playoffs.

* * *

Then they came to Kansas City for the finals, outlasted the Blues 9-8 in a 10-inning opener and took the second game 5-4 in 11 innings last night.

Rams Tackle Detroit Club

Cleveland Pro Team After Second League Win.

CLEVELAND — Coach Dutch Clark takes his Cleveland Rams to Detroit this Sunday to do battle with Coach Potsy Clark's Detroit Lions in the Rams' second league fray of the 1940 season. Dutch brings a powerful group of veterans and rookies to play the team for which he starred for several seasons.

Dutch will be trying to give his former coach, Potsy, his second defeat of the season, and Cleveland its second victory of the year.

In their league opener last Sunday the Rams downed a greatly improved Philadelphia eleven 21 to 13 to gain their first opening game victory since they joined the National league in 1937

The Rams have been working hard on defense formations and passing this week in preparation for the game in the University of Detroit Stadium.

The running attack displayed against the Eagles lived up to all advance notices as the charges of Drake and Hall kept the Philadelphia pass defense from becoming set.

Yanks Keep Going.

New York After Ninth Straight Win In Athletic Series.

By JUDSON BAILEY
(AP Sports Writer.)

Connie Mack, a well-known baseball manager and little-known prophet when he predicted last spring the four-time world champion Yankees would crumble this year, has his last chance to make good on that prediction today.

* * *

With an almost imaginary chance to retain the American league flag, the New Yorkers have won their last eight games in a whirlwind finish that even now is looming like a sword over the heads of the Cleveland Indians and the Detroit Tigers.

* * *

Detroit can eliminate Cleveland with one victory. But unless the Yankees get whipped, the Tigers will have to win twice at Cleveland to evade a tie with the champions.

That's why old Connie's forecast is right back in his lap today, for his Philadelphia Athletics will be meeting the Yanks for the last time this season.

Connie did his best in preparing for the crisis. He saved Johnny Babich for the pitching job. Babich, a prize pulled out of last year's draft, has beaten New York in four of five starts this season.

The Yanks swept a doubleheader from the A's yesterday, 5-4 and 2-0, to put the standings in this shape for the payoff:

Club	W.	L.	Pct.	G.B.	T.P.
Detroit ..	89	62	.589	..	3
Cleveland.	87	64	.579	2	3
New York	86	64	.573	2½	4

In the only other American league game yesterday, the Senators squeezed past the Boston Red Sox, 6-5, with two runs in the ninth inning when Gerald Walker tripled with one on and scored on a single.

The National league champions, Cincinnati's Reds, divided a doubleheader at St. Louis, taking the first 4-3 and dropping the nightcap 5-1.

The Boston Bees bottled the Brooklyn Dodgers twice, 5-2 and 5-4. Rookie Don Manna hit a homer with the bases full in the first game, and Pinchhitter Max West doubled with the sacks loaded in the nightcap's ninth.

* * *

The New York Giants took two from the tail-end Phillies, 3-1, and 2-1, as Harry Gumbert pitched four-hit ball and Bob Carpenter six.

Pittsburgh squeezed past the Chicago Cubs, 7-6.

BOWLING SCORES

High scoring honors in the Women's bowling league at the Meder Recreation alleys last night went to Sophia Meder, who collected a neat 541 total.

Mary McMullen smashed out a fine 225 in the middle game for a 539 while Thelma Linster finished with a 515 and Margaret Baker a 510.

Dick Caddock set the pace in the Commercial B league with a 609 total compiled on games of 189, 186 and 234.

A 234 total in the opening game enabled Paul Jesson to run off with top honors in the Westinghouse C league last night. Jesson scored a 568. He fell to 121 in the middle affair and finished with a 213.

Baer Can Fight When He's Not Afraid of Foe – McLemore

By HENRY McLEMORE.

Give the California butcher boy a chunk of undressed beef and he'll cut you a mess of tenderloins, T-bones, and porterhouses inside of a minute.

Max had a little more than a minute last night, so he did even better. He took the 207 pounds of Pat Comiskey and pounded them into an Irish stew.

Baer's last punch knocked Comiskey completely senseless and into the ropes. He would have fallen onto the apron, but as he sagged his lantern jaw caught the top strand and there he hung.

Baer got set as if to punch but then, as if remembering that he had killed an opponent under similar circumstances in California years ago, looked inquiringly at Referee Jack Dempsey. Jack was a man without mercy when he was fighting, but this was too much, even for him. He ordered Max to cease firing and together they hoisted the New Jersey boy off the ropes.

Last night's fight demonstrated once more that Baer is a really great heavyweight when facing a foe he does not fear. From the time I left the ringside until I was out of the stadium I heard no fewer than 20 people say: "If Baer would just fight Joe Louis that way, he could regain the heavyweight championship."

There was none of the ridiculous effort at boxing that he employs against fighters he fears. No jabs, no feints, no fancy footwork. Just plain, unadulterated slugging.

Never let anyone tell you Maxie can't hit. He's been around a long time, but there still isn't a more fearful punch in boxing than the Californian's full, 14-karat, up-from-the-floor, right. It descends with all the delicacy of a safe from a tenth floor window.

Baer took his victory modestly. He stayed in the ring only 30 minutes after the fight, took only 365 bows, and posed for only 125 pictures. In addition to $30,000, Baer was given a belt emblematic of the "world's white heavyweight championship of New Jersey" by Promoter Jack Kearns.

* * *

It was of solid imitation aluminum. Stippled with genuine imitation rhinestones. Under the ring lights it looked like nothing so much as one of those roadside signs that caution—"Slow- Slippery When Wet."

Barker Picks Bucks to Win

Writer Believes Don Scott Will Turn Tide.

By HERB BARKER

NEW YORK—(AP)—Taking the first blindfold test of the 1940 football season and gently reminding that everybody in this country is entitled to his own opinion, no matter how misguided he may be:

* * *

California-Michigan: The guess is Michigan, despite the long trip.

Minnesota-Washington: We'll take a chance on the Gophers.

Tulane-Boston College: This vote goes to Tulane.

U. C. L. A.-Southern Methodist: S. M. U.'s Mustangs rate the call.

Ohio State-Pitt: The Buckeyes won the Big Ten crown a year ago and apparently are better, if anything. Don Scott, powerful back, is the lad purified Pitt will need to watch. The choice is Ohio State.

North Carolina-Wake Forest. Here's a southern conference game that might explode some real fireworks. Still, North Carolina.

Duke-Virginia Military: Duke.

Southern California-Washington State: Southern California.

Louisiana State-Mississippi: Mississippi State.

Florida-Mississippi State—Mississippi State.

Stanford-San Francisco: Stanford.

Texas-Colorado: The coin says Texas.

Navy-William and Mary: the Tars.

Vanderbilt-Washington and Lee: Vanderbilt.

North Carolina State-Davidson: North Carolina State.

Denver-Iowa State: Iowa State.

Santa Clara-Utah: Santa Clara.

Texas Christian-Centenary: TCU's Horned Frogs.

of the race today and assure the Tigers at least a tie with the still fighting Yanks.

The Detroit players go into the series brimming with confidence that they will wrap it up quickly. As Greenberg pointed out, they never have been much bothered by Feller.

Manager Del Baker was not quite so sanguine. He had a lot of things on his mind, and the more he thought over the situation the more undecided he became about pitching Rowe today. He said he probably wouldn't decide finally until game time, but it looked like a good bet that one of his youngsters, either Harold Newhouser or Floyd Giebell, would get the call.

"With all the rest he's had Feller might pitch one of his great games," Baker reasoned. "I would hate for Rowe to pitch a fine game, himself, and get beat. I can't count on using him again in this series, and I've got to use one of my youngsters either in the first or second game anyway. Maybe I'll save Rowe to get that second game."

In other words, it looked like the Tiger leader might concede one victory to Feller and then let Rowe go after that all-important decision against a lesser Indian hurler tomorrow. It was pointed out to him that he would need a pair of victories if the Yanks should win their remaining four, but that didn't bother him.

"We've got to play the percentage," he said, "and the Yanks figure to lose one. If they send Feller against us again in the series we'll beat him to death."

* * *

It was quite a problem that Baker had on his mind, at that, for if Rowe should lose to Feller the Detroit staff would be in bad shape. Buck Newsom won't be available before Sunday, and Baker doesn't figure on using the veteran Tommy Bridges again until the first game of the world series. The entire Cleveland mound staff, on the other hand, is rested and rearing to go.

THEATERS

Rooney and Garland.

Frontier America.

Action from start to finish marks the new saga of frontier America "When the Daltons Rode" which begins Saturday at the Madison. Randolph Scott and Kay Francis have the leading roles. The Dalton gang, last great outlaw band of the old west, comes spectacularly to life in this screen version of the book of the same name. Andy Devine and George Bancroft are in the supporting cast. The co-feature is "Slightly Tempted" with Peggy Moran and Johnny Downs.

Stage Coach Days.

Phantom Killers.

A strange cargo of desperate men and women hurtle onward through the night on the crack train "Midnight Limited," unmindful that they have a date with death. This is the theme of the picture by that name, showing at the Park through Saturday. John King plays the role of the railroad detective who solves the mystery. The co-feature is "Sky Bandits," with Renfrew of the Royal Mounted in the leading role. James Newill has the character part.

DIGGER'S LUCK

TOWANDA, Pa.—(U.P.)—Ralph Pickering doesn't need a map to unearth buried treasure. While digging a silo pit on the A. C. Pratt farm, he discovered a 15-jewel gold watch lost 20 years ago but still in good condition. The next day he found the fob, a souvenir of the 50th anniversary of the battle of Gettysburg.

I'm taking the Train!"
Yes, and she'll save money in transportation, too—because both Pullman and Coach fares are lowest in years!
Parents never have to worry about sons and daughters who take the Pennsylvania Railroad. They ride comfortably. They arrive safely. And the cost is low.
In fact, on the Pennsylvania it costs but 2c a mile one-way and as little as 1½c a mile round trip to ride in restful air-conditioned coaches on the fastest of trains. And so low are Pullman fares that you can enjoy a berth and full Pullman luxuries for less than what it cost to go in a coach just a few years ago.
The Fall is a Wonderful Travel Season—Take a Trip Yourself!
Rest up after the activities and heat of summer. Go away for a few days. Relax. The Pennsylvania will take you to any number of delightful places—comfortably, quickly, safely and economically!
A SUGGESTION: See The New York World's Fair Before It Closes October 27!
Fares are so low, and you can arrange an all-expense tour well within your budget . . . or go now and pay later on Travel Credit Plan. Just ask Ticket or Travel Agents for details.

MANSFIELD HIGH places a two-game winning streak on the block tonight when it faces the powerful Elyria high grid machine under the floodlights at 8 p. m. at Stadium field.

Mentor Paul Snyders athletes will go into the game as underdogs, but the Tygers are capable of pulling an upset.

Mansfield will be handicapped as two of the varsity backfield men are on the injured and sick lists and may not see service for more than a period

Martin Henke, hard-hitting fullback, suffered a knee injury in the Cambridge game last week and the injury has not responded to treatment.

The other regular is Adam Brandt, halfback, who is ill with a throat ailment and has not been out for practice this week

Elyria comes here with a smooth-working outfit capable of striking from any point on the gridiron. Its passing attack is expected to cause the Tygers considerable trouble.

In Al Meyer, Elyria has a great running and passing ace The lad sparked the club to a 13 to 6 win over the Sandusky Blue Streaks last week.

Mansfield dusted off Cambridge 25 to 7, last week but in the second half the losers' broke loose with a passing attack that worked with splendid results

As Baer Scores Stunning Upset Victory

Former heavyweight king, 31-year-old Max Baer is pictured being restrained from further fighting by Referee Jack Dempsey after knocking out 19-year-old Pat Comiskey in the first round of their battle at Jersey City, N. J. Comiskey is shown draped over the ropes.

Seats Still Available For Elyria-Tyger Game.

There are still plenty of good seats available for the Elyria-Mansfield Tyger football game at 8 p. m. today at Stadium field, Senior high officials announced today. All seats for tonight's contest are reserved. Admission price for adults is 50 cents. Tickets may be purchased in advance at Central drug, Brown's drug store, Tawse Pharmacy, Yuncker Sports and the Mansfield Athletic Supply store, or may be purchased at the Stadium field ticket offices tonight.

Near 50,000 of them, faintly hoping that the miracle might yet happen, were expected to crowd into the great municipal stadium for the opening game of the "do-or-don't" series against the tearing Tigers from Detroit.

Judging from a score of scattered conversations with bewildered fans, hope almost has fled a city that was baseball wild only a few weeks ago. The customers haven't made up their minds who to blame for sure but a majority seem inclined to side with Manager Oscar Vitt against his insurgent players

It was plain to see that little fight was left in the locals by the way they greeted the Detroit team upon its arrival last night. Only a sprinkling of tomatoes, turnips, lemons and eggs were tossed at the station, and those with lamentable lack of control. Pete Fox was the only player pinked by a vegetable.

There even were some cheers for Schoolboy Rowe, the pitcher who had been tentatively nominated by Del Baker to try to knock the Indians completely out

Colonels In Title Playoffs

KANSAS CITY —(AP)— Those pesky Louisville Colonels, who languish through the American Association like a southern gentleman, then come to life with the cool fall breezes, are true to form in the Shaughnessy playoffs.

* * *

The Colonels had to win the final game of the season to wind up with a .500 mark, a poor fourth 19 games behind the champion Kansas City Blues. They iced a red hot second place Columbus Red Bird, four games to two, in the first round of the playoffs.

* * *

Then they came to Kansas City for the finals, outlasted the Blues 9-8 in a 10-inning opener and took the second game 5-4 in 11 innings last night

Girls Team to Tackle Strong Grafton Club In Benefit Game.

THE Mansfield Merchants girls' softball team—the only Mansfield club ever to win a state tournament championship—will ring down the curtain on a highly successful season by tackling the Grafton Merchant girls' team in a single game at 2:30 p. m. at North Lake park Sunday.

Manager F. L. "Doc" Daugherty, who saw his team mark up 21 wins against 11 defeats, is staging the game in an effort to raise funds for a banquet for the players and coaches.

Frances Clark, star right-hander, will handle the mound duties for the Mansfield team in the windup. Practically every member of the team which copped the title will play Sunday, Daugherty said today.

BALTIMORE —(AP)— It was chilly all over Baltimore today, but it was downright cold around Oriole baseball park. Newark's Beats were out ahead, 2 to 1, in the International league playoffs.

About 9,000 top-coated fans shivered through the Bears' 13-hit assault on Baltimore last night and saw the flock lose their second straight in the Governor's cup series, 8 to 4.

Rams Tackle Detroit Club

Cleveland Pro Team After Second League Win.

CLEVELAND — Coach Dutch Clark takes his Cleveland Rams to Detroit this Sunday to do battle with Coach Potsy Clark's Detroit Lions in the Rams' second league fray of the 1940 season. Dutch brings a powerful group of veterans and rookies to play the team for which he starred for several seasons.

Dutch will be trying to give his former coach, Potsy, his second defeat of the season, and Cleveland its second victory of the year.

In their league opener last Sunday the Rams downed a greatly improved Philadelphia eleven 21 to 13 to gain their first opening game victory since they joined the National league in 1937.

The Rams have been working hard on defense formations and passing this week in preparation for the game in the University of Detroit Stadium.

The running attack displayed against the Eagles lived up to all advance notices as the charges of Drake and Hall kept the Philadelphia pass defense from becoming set.

Yanks Keep Going

New York After Ninth Straight Win In Athletic Series.

By JUDSON BAILEY
(AP Sports Writer.)

Connie Mack, a well-known baseball manager and little-known prophet when he predicted last spring the four-time world champion Yankees would crumble this year, has his last chance to make good on that prediction today.

* * *

With an almost imaginary chance to retain the American league flag, the New Yorkers have won their last eight games in a whirlwind finish that even now is looming like a sword over the heads of the Cleveland Indians and the Detroit Tigers.

* * *

Detroit can eliminate Cleveland with one victory. But unless the Yankees get whipped, the Tigers will have to win twice at Cleveland to evade a tie with the champions.

That's why old Connie's forecast is right back in his lap today, for his Philadelphia Athletics will be meeting the Yanks for the last time this season.

Connie did his best in preparing for the crisis. He saved Johnny Babich for the pitching job. Babich, a prize pulled out of last year's draft, has beaten New York in four of five starts this season.

The Yanks swept a doubleheader from the A's yesterday, 5-4 and 2-0, to put the standings in this shape for the payoff:

Club	W.	L.	Pct.	G.B.	T.P.
Detroit ..	89	62	.589	..	3
Cleveland.	87	64	.579	2	3
New York	86	64	.573	2½	4

In the only other American league game yesterday, the Senators squeezed past the Boston Red Sox, 6-5, with two runs in the ninth inning when Gerald Walker tripled with one on and scored on a single.

The National league champions, Cincinnati's Reds, divided a doubleheader at St. Louis, taking the first 4-3 and dropping the nightcap 5-1.

The Boston Bees bottled the Brooklyn Dodgers twice, 5-2 and 5-4. Rookie Don Manna hit a homer with the bases full in the first game, and Pinchhitter Max West doubled with the sacks loaded in the nightcap's ninth.

* * *

The New York Giants took two from the tail-end Phillies, 3-1, and 2-1, as Harry Gumbert pitched four-hit ball and Bob Carpenter six.

Pittsburgh squeezed past the Chicago Cubs, 7-6.

BOWLING SCORES

High scoring honors in the Women's bowling league at the Meder Recreation alleys last night went to Sophia Meder, who collected a neat 541 total.

Mary McMullen smashed out a fine 225 in the middle game for a 539 while Thelma Linster finished with a 515 and Margaret Baker a 510.

Dick Caddock set the pace in the Commercial B league with a 609 total compiled on games of 189, 186 and 234.

A 234 total in the opening game enabled Paul Jesson to run off with top honors in the Westinghouse C league last night. Jesson scored a 568. He fell to 121 in the middle affair and finished with a 213.

Baer Can Fight When He's Not Afraid of Foe — McLemore

By HENRY McLEMORE.

Give the California butcher boy a chunk of undressed beef and he'll cut you a mess of tenderloins, T-bones, and porterhouses inside of a minute.

Max had a little more than a minute last night, so he did even better. He took the 207 pounds of Pat Comiskey and pounded them into an Irish stew.

Baer's last punch knocked Comiskey completely senseless and into the ropes. He would have fallen onto the apron, but as he sagged his lantern jaw caught the top strand and there he hung.

Baer got set as if to punch but then, as if remembering that he had killed an opponent under similar circumstances in California years ago, looked inquiringly at Referee Jack Dempsey. Jack was a man without mercy when he was fighting, but this was too much even for him. He ordered Max to cease firing and together they hoisted the New Jersey boy off the ropes.

Last night's fight demonstrated once more that Baer is a really great heavyweight when facing a foe he does not fear. From the time I left the ringside until I was out of the stadium I heard no fewer than 20 people say: "If Baer would just fight Joe Louis that way he could regain the heavyweight championship."

There was none of the ridiculous effort at boxing that he employs against fighters he fears. No jabs, no feints, no fancy footwork. Just plain, unadulterated slugging.

Never let anyone tell you Maxie can't hit. He's been around a long time, but there still isn't a more fearful punch in boxing than the Californian's full, 14-karat, up-from-the-floor, right. It descends with all the deliacy of a safe from a tenth floor window.

Baer took his victory modestly. He stayed in the ring only 30 minutes after the fight, took only 365 bows, and posed for only 125 pictures. In addition to $30,000, Baer was given a belt emblematic of the "world's white heavyweight championship of New Jersey" by Promoter Jack Kearns.

* * *

It was of solid imitation aluminum. Stippled with genuine imitation rhinestones. Under the ring lights it looked like nothing so much as one of those roadside signs that caution—"Slow—Slippery When Wet."

Barker Picks Bucks to Win

Writer Believes Don Scott Will Turn Tide.

By HERB BARKER

NEW YORK—(AP)— Taking the first blindfold test of the 1940 football season and gently reminding that everybody in this country is entitled to his own opinion, no matter how misguided he may be:

* * *

California-Michigan: The guess is Michigan, despite the long trip.

Minnesota-Washington: We'll take a chance on the Gophers.

Tulane-Boston College: This vote goes to Tulane.

U. C. L. A.-Southern Methodist: S. M. U.'s Mustangs rate the call.

Ohio State-Pitt: The Buckeyes won the Big Ten crown a year ago and apparently are better, if anything. Don Scott, powerful back, is the lad purified Pitt will need to watch. The choice is Ohio State.

North Carolina-Wake Forest: Here's a southern conference game that might explode some real fireworks. Still, North Carolina.

Duke-Virginia Military: Duke.

Southern California-Washington State: Southern California.

Louisiana State-Mississippi: Mississippi State.

Florida-Mississippi State—Mississippi State.

Stanford-San Francisco: Stanford.

Texas-Colorado: The coin says Texas.

Navy-William and Mary: the Tars.

Vanderbilt-Washington and Lee: Vanderbilt.

North Carolina State-Davidson: North Carolina State.

Denver-Iowa State: Iowa State.

Santa Clara-Utah: Santa Clara.

Texas Christian-Centenary: TCU's Horned Frogs.

of the race today and assure the Tigers at least a tie with the still fighting Yanks.

The Detroit players go into the series brimming with confidence that they will wrap it up quickly. As Greenberg pointed out, they never have been much bothered by Feller.

Manager Del Baker was not quite so sanguine. He had a lot of things on his mind, and the more he thought over the situation the more undecided he became about pitching Rowe today. He said he probably wouldn't decide finally until game time, but it looked like a good bet that one of his youngsters, either Harold Newhouser or Floyd Giebell, would get the call.

"With all the rest he's had Feller might pitch one of his great games," Baker reasoned. "I would hate for Rowe to pitch a fine game, himself, and get beat. I can't count on using him again in this series, and I've got to use one of my youngsters either in the first or second game anyway. Maybe I'll save Rowe to get that second game."

In other words, it looked like the Tiger leader might concede one victory to Feller and then let Rowe go after that all-important decision against a lesser Indian hurler tomorrow. It was pointed out to him that he would need a pair of victories if the Yanks should win their remaining four, but that didn't bother him.

"We've got to play the percentage," he said, "and the Yanks figure to lose one. If they send Feller against us again in the series we'll beat him to death."

* * *

It was quite a problem that Baker had on his mind, at that, for if Rowe should lose to Feller the Detroit staff would be in bad shape. Buck Newsom won't be available before Sunday, and Baker doesn't figure on using the veteran Tommy Bridges again until the first game of the world series. The entire Cleveland mound staff, on the other hand, is rested and rearing to go.

THEATERS

Rooney and Garland.

Frontier America.

Action from start to finish marks the new saga of frontier America "When the Daltons Rode", which begins Saturday at the Madison. Randolph Scott and Kay Francis have the leading roles. The Dalton gang, last great outlaw band of the old west, comes spectacularly to life in this screen version of the book of the same name. Andy Devine and George Bancroft are in the supporting cast. The co-feature is "Slightly Tempted" with Peggy Moran and Johnny Downs.

Stage Coach Days.

Phantom Killers.

A strange cargo of desperate men and women hurtle onward through the night on the crack train "Midnight Limited," unmindful that they have a date with death. This is the theme of the picture by that name, showing at the Park through Saturday. John King plays the role of the railroad detective who solves the mystery. The co-feature is "Sky Bandits," with Renfrew of the Royal Mounted in the leading role. James Newill has the character part.

DIGGER'S LUCK

TOWANDA, Pa. —(U.P.)— Ralph Pickering doesn't need a map to unearth buried treasure. While digging a silo pit on the A. C. Pratt farm, he discovered a 15-jewel gold watch, lost 20 years ago but still in good condition. The next day he found the fob, a souvenir of the 50th anniversary of the battle of Gettysburg.

SATURDAY NITE IS OUR BIG NITE!

Yes, and she'll save money in transportation, too—because both Pullman and Coach fares are lowest in years!
Parents never have to worry about sons and daughters who take the Pennsylvania Railroad. They ride comfortably. They arrive safely. And the cost is low.
In fact, on the Pennsylvania it costs but 2c a mile one-way and as little as 1½c a mile round trip to ride in restful air-conditioned coaches on the fastest of trains. And so low are Pullman fares that you can enjoy a berth and full Pullman luxuries for less than what it cost to go in a coach just a few years ago.
The Fall is a Wonderful Travel Season—Take a Trip Yourself
Rest up after the activities and heat of summer. Go away for a few days. Relax. The Pennsylvania will take you to any number of delightful places—comfortably, quickly, safely and economically!

A SUGGESTION: See The New York World's Fair Before It Closes October 27!
Fares are so low, and you can arrange an all-expense tour well within your budget . . . or go now and pay later on Travel Credit Plan. Just ask Ticket or Travel Agents for details.
